PURSUED DRIVER KILLED IN CRASH

WINNERS FROM KINGSTON

Stirling Lawn Bowling Club played host to a mixed trebles tournament on Saturday with ten teams taking part. Three game winners from the Kingston Lawn Bowling Club were Cleo Roblin, lead (left); Errol Moses, skip and Lottie McAdoo, vice.

STIRLING TEAM

A team of three bowlers from Stirling were two game winners at the Lawn Bowling tournament held on Saturday. Team members were Evelyn Burgess, vice (left); JackDoran, skip and Mrs. JackDoran, lead. Another team from Kingston was the one game winner. Prizes were given to all the winners in the tournament.

OPP chase ends in Oak Hills

What started out as a hitchhiking episode in Prince Edward County Monday evening, ended with the accidental death of William Lavern Baker, 27, of Station Street, Belleville, south of Stirling on Highway 14 early Tuesday.

As provincial police from Picton and Belleville detachments have put the details together, it appears a man, who forced Charles Walt of Wellington, at knife point, to take over his car, was the same man who died when the vehicle he was driving plunged into the west ditch on Highway 14 south of the Oak Hills Road.

Walt picked up the hitchhiker driving from Trenton to Wellington, and in that village, a police car was parked outside a residence. The passenger pulled the knife and ordered Walt to change places, but in the process, Walt escaped from the car and called the police. The man with the knife sped off north. Later this car was found abandoned at the North Beach provincial park road, and another vehicle was reported stolen from the same locale.

Early Tuesday morning, Constable Gerry Briscoe of the Belleville detachment noticed a car driving erratically south of Stirling and gave chase. The car went out of control near the accident scene and skidded some distance on its roof before coming to rest. The car was totally demolished, and Baker was pinned between the roof and the front seat.

He was removed by the efforts of the Thurlow Fire Department's Emergency Squad, which was called. It has a chain saw apparatus that cuts through any metal quickly. Baker was pronounced dead at the scene by coroner Dr. P.D.G. Briggs of Stirling.

While police have yet to make a positive identification of Baker as the hitchhiker, circumstances surrounding both events lead them to believe there is a connection.

Lawn bowling tourney held

Ten teams of lawn bowlers participated in a tournament held at the local greens on Saturday. The mixed trebles tournament had teams from Kingston, Trenton and Campbellford taking part as well as members from the local club.

The ladies of the Stirling club served supper in the clubhouse to the visiting bowlers.

A team from the Kingston Lawn Bowling Club was the three game winner. Members of the team were Errol Moses, skip; Cleo Roblin, lead; and Lottie McAdoo, vice.

Jack Doran, skip; Mrs. Jack Doran, lead; and Evelyn Burgess, vice, from the local Lawn Bowling Club were the two game winners while another Kingston team was the one game winner. Members of the team included Hugh Galt, skip; Mrs. Hugh Galt, vice; and Barbara Harding, lead. All of the winners were presented with prizes at the close of the tournament.

The next tournament at the local club will be held on August 26 and will be a mixed pairs tournament. The ladies will be holding a trebles tournament on August 28 at the local greens.

Tractor rolls, farmer killed

A Rawdon township farmer died late Wednesday afternoon when the tractor on which he was riding toppled over on him.

James W. Hewitt, 55, of the 14th concession of Rawdon, was found crushed beneath his tractor at 4:40 p.m., July 26, by his 15-year-old son.

Spokesmen from the Madoc detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police said Mr. Hewitt was attempting to tow a half-ton truck with the tractor when the truck began rolling and upset the tractor. An autopsy was held in Belleville General Hospital Thursday morning.

CONSTRUCTION UNDER WAY ON SCHOOL

Construction of the new elementary school south of St. James Street, Stirling, has been proceeding with workmen laying foundations. Workmen from Miron-Wiggers Construction Ltd., Trenton, have been at the site of the new school since the middle of June. Tentative completion date has been set for January 1st, 1973.

Rawdon - Sidney road to be rebuilt

The H.J. McFarland Construction Co. of Picton has been awarded the contract for the rebuilding of a half-mile section of the Rawdon - Sidney townline road east of Stirling.

Clarke E. Rollins, MLA for Hastings East, announced recently that a section of the road had been designated by Gordon Carton, Minister of Transportation and Communications, as a development road.

As such, the cost of the project will be completely underwritten by the provincial government.

Douglas Andrews, road superintendent for the Township of Rawdon, explained that the project involves taking out Ball Hill, two and a half miles east of Stirling. The road will be levelled over a distance of half a mile.

Mr. Andrews said the contractor will be moving 40,000 cubic yards of earth in order to flatten the hill which has been treacherous for driving under winter conditions.

The Rawdon Township official said he expected the work to begin withing the next week or 10 days, with six weeks required to complete the job.

BARLEY HARVEST

(By John Wilkins Sigsworth)

It's mid-summer and barley harvest time again in Canada. What better season is there to review a fascinating Eastern love story that unfolded at Bethlehem three thousand years ago "in the beginning of barley harvest?"

The "little town of Bethlehem" was well named, it means house of bread. Located four and one-half miles south of Jerusalem, it lay at the hub of a relatively rich agricultural pocket. The harvest season there was not early August, as here in Canada, but early April or late March, just after the Jewish Feast of Passover and a fortnight before wheat harvest.

The story's background runs thus: Hebrew Naomi, now widowed, had just returned from Moab to Judaea with her Moabitish daughter-in-law, Ruth, also widowed. Heathen Moab was a tolerable land to live in when famine stalked, but hardly the place to stay when news trickled back from the homeland that "the Lord had visited his people in giving them bread."

Ruth was given every encouragement to stay behind with her sister-in-law, Orpah, who said an affectionate farewell and dutifully returned "unto her people and unto her gods." But something in the character and faith of Naomi had won Ruth's heart. No more poignant passage is to be found in all literature than her wholehearted resolve to follow Naomi and Naomi's God, as recorded in verses 16 and 17 of chapter 1 of the book that bears her name, Ruth, it seems, had counted fully the cost of discipleship.

And now, travel-worn after fifty miles, the pair had arrived. Frank G. Slaughter's fictionalized version "The Song of Ruth" (Permabooks) gives us a glimpse of their possible poverty in the suggestion that they had sold their mule to buy food and brought only clothes with them. Would these people take to her, an alien, as she had taken to their God? Ruth must have wondered.

Naomi herself seems to have been altered by the years and by the premature passing of her husband and two sons. "Is this Naomi?" the townspeople, who knew the family well, asked at her coming.

But Ruth-what contrast in her fresh young beauty! Such contrast could account in part for the statement that "all the city was moved" when the wayfarers appeared.

This was before the days of direct doles, however, so one did not share in Bethlehem's barley merely by standing in some bread line. Ruth recognized her responsibility to find food and asked Naomi's permission to go to the fields to glean. Happily a merciful provision of the Levitical law required that "the stranger that dwelleth with you shall be unto you as one born among you, and thou shalt love him as thyself" (Levitic us 19:34). And a kind custom allowed all women, poor or widowed, to glean behind the reapers at harvest time. It was humble back-breaking work, but in accepting it cheerfully Ruth uncovered more of that character which has become a model for all time. And dependence upon Providence was displayed too, for did she not declare "I will glean after him in whose sight I shall find grace."

Boaz, a relative of Naomi's late husband, was one of Bethlehem's rich land owners, yet a man of piety who, despite the presence of a head servant, mingled freely among his reapers. Was it chance as the phrasing suggests, that led Ruth to his section of the harvest field? Most students will see in the circumstances the divine leadings instead.

And so the exquisite romance, set in the period of the judges and written as a tranquil supplement to the boisterous book of Judges, unfolds poverty-stricken Ruth bending at her gleaning, wealthy Boaz attracted to her and enquiring of the stranger's background, the giving of orders for special favours on her behalf ("handfuls on purpose"), the disclosure that a kinsman of Ruth's former husband was obliged to marry her, the clearing of technicalities connected with this so-called Levirate Law so Boaz could be that kinsman, the marriage and its consumation.

The late Canon James Edward Ward, for many years rector of St. Stephen's Anglican Church in Toronto and editor of Bible plays for the CBC built one of his own delightful dramas around the book of Ruth. "God's Plenty," he called it, and what a happy harvest piece of singing and flowing verse it is. The last scene is set in the home of Boaz a year after the marriage. Ruth is bending over a crib, Boaz looks lovingly on. The music of a lullaby floats from somewhere. Grandmother Naomi who, the record tells us, became the nurse, appears and speaks. Her words are of sweeter music, of shepherds, of another Babe and its mother, of a manger and cattle and a crowned King. They come compulsively but the vision's details are confusing even to her.

Ruth and Boaz could not decode the mysterious prophecy. But in the light of history we can. For young Obed in that crib was to become the father of Jesse, and Jesse of David, and David an ancestor of the Messiah, the Lord Jesus Christ who, via Bethlehem a millenium later, to quote J.B.

Speaking of Sport

BY THOM REYNOLDS

Spring Brook girls softball team edged Stirling on Monday night 15-14.

The Stirling Novice team will begin ORSA playdowns against Madoc tonight at the Stirling Ball Park at 7 p.m.

Stirling Bantams took the "B" championship from Belleville in a tournament held in Picton on Saturday, July 22. In the third game, the local Bantams defeated Belleville 9-2. Stirling picked up five runs in the first inning with Stan Myers homering. Helping the team in the first were Glen Detlor, Kevin Solmes, Cliff Reid, and Wally Blakeley. Glen Detlor and David Jeffs picked up runs in the fourth while Kevin Solmes homered in the sixth. David Jeffs also added a run in the sixth. It wasn't until the sixth that Belleville was able to get on the scoresheet.

In the first game of the Picton Tournament, Stirling was edged by Markham 5-4. Markham picked up four runs in the first while Stirling was unable to put a man on base. Doug Bastedo and Stan Myers picked up runs for Stirling in the second while Glen Detlor and David Jeffs tied the game up in the fifth inning. Markham was able to pick up a run in the sixth to edge by Stirling.

A team from Welcome called it quits after the second inning of Stirling's second game as they were trailing 10-2. Stirling picked up six runs in the first with Glen Detlor homering, Kevin Solmes, Terry Bailey, Cliff Reid, Stan Myers and Richard Whatham picked up runs in the first inning. Welcome picked up two runs in the first but Stirling hit them in the second inning with four runs by Kevin Solmes, Terry Bailey, Cliff Reid and Robert DeJong, who homered.

Stirling picked up the B championship trophy donated by the Picton Legion after their 9-2 victory over Belleville.

Stirling and Belleville met on Wednesday night for another encounter but Stirling didn't have it as easy as Belleville edged by the locals 5-4. Kevin Solmes brought David Jeffs in from third base with a hit to left field in the third inning to start the scoring off. No runs were scored in the fourth or fifth innings but in the sixth, Belleville picked up three runs. Cliff Reid for Stirling placed a home-run hit to deep left field to bring in Robert DeJong and Doug Bastedo from second and third bases. Belleville picked up two runs in the seventh inning on a grounder that got by the second baseman out into centre field. Belleville's two runs gave that team a one run lead.

Stirling will meet Napanee Bantams tonight at the local Ball Field at 8:15 p.m. The local team will be going into ORSA playdowns against Cobourg next Monday night. No place or time has been announced as of yet.

Spring Brook Pee Wees defeated Stirling on Wednesday night 8-4.

The Spring Brook-Stirling Pee Wee softball All-Star team will be playing tonight in Campbellford at 7 p.m. This local team of Stirling and Spring Brook players is the special ORSA All-Star team.

Kerby sisters home from trip

A pair of Stirling area sisters have returned home after taking a six-week tour of the British Isles.

Elizabeth Kerby, 18, and her 16-year-old sister, Marie, are daughters of Mr. and Mrs. John Kerby, R.R. 2, Stirling.

A highlight of their trip was a visit to the grave of their uncle, Warrant Officer Stewart Kerby, who was killed in England on May 12, 1943 while training student pilots. At the time, he was awaiting passage home to Canada, having completed a tour of duty in the Middle East with allied forces in World War Two.

WO Kerby was a native of the Ivanhoe area. His body lies in a special section of Evesham Cemetery on the outskirts of Stratford-on-Avon.

The Kerby girls are pupils at Central Hastings High School at Madoc.

Vanderwater Park popular

Camping at the Col. Roscoe Vanderwater conservation area east of Thomasburg is seeing increased popularity this year with overflow crowds already being experienced on some weekends.

In the words of John Wuite, Moira River Conservation Area Fieldman, campsite usage at the park has been "wonderful."

Mr. Wuite said that as early as the May 24 weekend all 40 campsites at the park were rented.

But authority officials are working toward increasing the number of campsites at the park and during the summer and fall another 20 will be added in readiness for next year. The campsite roadway will be extended for about 1/2 mile and another well will be drilled, for use by campers.

While camping is generally on the increase, with provincial parks also reporting overflow crowds, the lower daily admission rate at the Vanderwater Park may be partially responsible for the Vanderwater Park's increased popularity this year.

Birthday bonanza

There were four birthday anniversaries celebrated at Senior Citizens last Thursday. Everett Cook, dis ole Scribe, Lenora Williams and Madge David. Madge and Lenora were swamped with relatives. Madge had present a daughter and son-in-law, Jean and Doug Smith of Ottawa, a daughter-in-law, Mona David, two granddaughters, Susan Buchanan and Debbie David and one great-granddaughter, Barbara Buchanan of Peterborough. These relatives served a lovely birthday lunch including two birthday cakes. Bessie Patterson served individual fruit salads to the fifty who were present. The air was filled with good wishes and the birthday song was repeated four times.

Olive Scrimshaw of Belleville was a welcome guest.

Twelve tables of euchre were in progress, the winners being: John and Fanny Kane, Edna Campbell and George McMullen.

Everybody went home smiling.

More women now working

Do official labour force statistics provide convincing evidence that women are taking over the jobs men used to hold?

Or do they show that new kinds of jobs suitable to women are developing in our service-oriented society?

Data appearing in the newly released 1972 edition of the Canadian Consumer Credit Factbook published jointly by the Canadian Consumer Loan Association and the Federated Council of Sales Finance Companies, show that the proportion of jobs occupied by women in 1970 had increased over 1951 by 667,000.

In non - agricultural employment, there were just over one million female workers in 1951, and by 1970, employed females totalled 2 1/2 million - from 25% of total commercial employment in 1951 to 34% in 1970.

Females made up 8% of the employed work force in agriculture in 1951. By 1970, the percentage had increased to 13. Had the proportion of employed females not increased during the 19 years, there would have been almost 29,000 job openings in agriculture and over 638,000 job openings in industry.

In 1951 the male participation rate in the labour force was 83 per cent; by 1970, following a steadily declining path, the male participation rate had dropped to 76 per cent. The Factbook explains this as reflecting the trend toward longer average years of schooling and earlier retirement."

"Participation rate" is the percentage of persons 14 years of age or more in the work force.

The female participation rate rose from 24% in 1951 to 36% in 1970.

BARLEY HARVEST

Phillips, "personally visited our planet."

And so the "barley harvest" story speaks to us of many things: of sorrow conquered by a faith that led back after a questionable move, of temporal abundance where there had been famine, of humility and industry, of a community's readiness to welcome and absorb an alien (racial tolerance we call it today but don't always practise it), of an employee - employer relation that was based on justice, of a rich man's generosity, of a kinsman who became a redeemer,.....But especially it speaks of a choice to follow at any cost the light of Heaven as it was seen reflected in the life of a devoted Jehovah worshipper and of a marriage "made in heaven" through which union came the world's Redeemer bringing spiritual bounty far in excess of Bethlehem's material barley.

May it be added that that Redeemer, in choosing a Gentile woman for an ancestress, thereby made his mission one to all mankind. And this further, that since Boaz was a son of the Jericho harlot, Rahab, that mission has particular concern for sinners.

And now back to barley. Throughout much of the Bible's history it seems to have been a staple food. Besides our Ruthian reference, we find "smitten barley" in Egypt in Moses' time, the Promised Land referred to as "a land of ... barley", "barley cakes" in Ezekiel's time, "barley loaves" from a lad's lunch touched by the Master and feeding a seaside multitude, barley sales in John's Apocalyptic vision on Patmos. One textbook claims that until the 16th or 17th century, barley was the principal bread plant of the world.

Canada of late has experienced a boom in barley production. While the trend has been on the upswing across the last decade, the nearly 600,000,000 - bushel crop in 1971 represents, according to Winnipeg's Free Press Weekly, a fantastic 58% increase over the previous year. Other countries are increasing their output also, but less dramatically. Much of Canada's crop comes from the West, grown on land formerly used for wheat, but Ontario Production is up too, especially in south-west Ontario where yields as high as 100 bushels per acre are not unknown. Some Southern Ontario farmers now grow successfully a new winter variety.

Much of the nation's crop is exported and much more goes for livestock feed. High in protein, sugar and starch content, it is excellent as a component of rations for both dairy and beef cattle, as well as for hogs.

But many will regret that the malting industry absorbs millions of bushels of the crop annually, especially to the extent that the malt is used for the production of beverage alcohol in a world where millions of people continue to starve for bread. But let it be said in the industry's favour, however, that numerous other familiar products - yeast, carbon dioxide, soft drinks, syrups, sugars, candies, colourings, drugs, vinegar, malted milk, and a host more - come directly or indirectly from its operation.

Happily the milling industry processes at least a few hundred thousand bushels for human food, most going into "pot barley" and "pearl barley" which are processed to barley grits, barley flour, barley flakes, canned soups and baby foods. It is said that some of the grits are used as breakfast cereal and that some of the barley is puffed - presumably for the same purpose. But who ever sees these on the grocer's shelves?

With the continuing appearance of new ready - to - eat breakfast foods today, I wonder if the creation and promotion of a first-rate product based on civilization's oldest cereal isn't long overdue. True, the Pablum people have one for babies but an acceptable barley breakfast for adults seems still lacking. If taste is the trouble let them tackle that problem imaginatively, as have the producers of palatable soy bean concentrates. When it appears, a harmonic romantic name is waiting, reminiscent of this idyll of Bethlehem where, in the divine economy, Boaz and his beautiful, dutiful, young Moabitess bride made the hamlet historic, even before King David or King David's Greater Son was born there.

Mr. Sigsworth is a high school teacher and writer now living at Oshawa. He and his wife plan to retire in the not - to - distant future at their rural retreat in the Oak Hills near Stirling.

Water Safety

Drivers of boats pulling water skiers take on an awesome responsibility. Not only is the life of the skier, to a large degree, in the driver's hands, but if the driver does something stupid, his future may be at stake too.

The reason is that the laws covering boats involved in towing water skiers are not in Small Vessel Regulations, like other boating laws, but are written into the Criminal Code.

It follows that if a boat operator is convicted of even the most trivial offence he still has a criminal record. And a criminal record in Canada is a fearsome thing. A person with a record may never be able to leave the country, be bonded for a job or get a security clearance, and may suffer many other restrictions.

THREE OFFENCES

The Ontario Safety League has issued a warning pointing out the three offences mentioned in the Criminal Code. They are:

(a) Dangerous operation of a towboat, water skis or any other towed object. This includes such actions as water skiing too close to shorelines, docks, swimming areas or other boats, or any action which might create a hazard for other boaters.

(b) A second responsible person must be carried in the towboat to act as an observer. The observer's duties are to watch the skier and relay any information to the boat driver. This allows the driver to concentrate on the water ahead.

(c) It's an offence to water ski from one half hour after sunset to sunrise. This effectively bans water skiing during the hours of darkness when it's hard for other boat operators to see a skier.

Conviction on any of these offences could bring fines up to $50 as well as a criminal record.

It's interesting that the one who usually suffers most is the boat driver. The skier usually gets off. He can successfully argue that he can't possibly go anywhere that the boat doesn't take him; and the skier is not necessarily made responsible for having the observer in the boat, but the boat operator is.

A new boat safety act was passed by the U.S. Congress last August giving the coast guard and other marine police agencies greatly increased powers to improve water safety.

NOTICE OF PUBLIC MEETING

SELECT COMMITTEE ON LAND DRAINAGE

By resolution of the Legislature of Ontario a select committee was appointed on June 30, 1972 to examine, study and inquire into the following matters regarding land drainage in Ontario:

(1) The objectives of land drainage as an agricultural practice and the benefits to be derived from such practice.

(2) The associated problems of competing land use in the urban fringe and in wetlands, as influenced by land drainage projects.

(3) The problem of public interest in land use over the drainage of private lands by individuals.

(4) The prior evaluation of the benefits and costs of a drainage project.

(5) An evaluation of the petition procedure for initiating a drainage project.

(6) A review of the construction improvement and maintenance procedures under "The Drainage Act" in achieving the objectives.

(7) A review of the appeal procedures under "The Drainage Act".

(8) A review of the financial procedures and assistance under "The Drainage Act" and other drainage programs.

(9) A study of the costs of land drainage and what influences such costs and how they may be reduced, i.e. engineering costs, etc.

(10) An evaluation of construction practices in general and erosion and weed control of drainage ditches in detail.

(11) A review of the administrative practices and methods in carrying out responsibility under "The Drainage Act".

After due study and consideration to recommend such changes in the laws, procedures and processes as in the opinion of the Committee may be necessary and desirable.

The Committee has the intention of visiting all areas in the Province and to hold public hearings on the questions associated with the above terms of reference.

This therefore, is to invite all interested parties, individual or otherwise, to indicate to the Committee, by (AUGUST 15, 1972) their intention to submit written briefs or their desire to attend the hearings and make oral representations.

The response to this invitation will determine the times and places of hearings. A written notice setting out the time and place of the public hearings will be given as soon as possible to all persons who have filed notice of intention to make written or oral submissions.

Do You Remember?

25 Years Ago

At a meeting of the Village Council held Friday evening last, the tender of the Stirling Lumber Co. for a new roof on the Stirling Community Building was accepted. The work will be started in the near future and is supposed to be completed by the last of August or early in September.

*****

Sweet corn over seven feet in height was displayed at the office by W.L. Fox, of this Village, yesterday. The corn is of a well known variety and was grown in Mr. Fox's garden.

*****

Workmen are engaged this week in cleaning out the village well and removing a quantity of sand which has worked up through the gravel bottom. The work is being supervised by Wm. Cairns, local waterworks Supt.

*****

Burton Bateman in charge of highway maintenance work in this district, underwent an operation in Belleville Hospital on Saturday last. The latest report is that his condition is satisfactory.

*****

During the weekend storm at Bonarlaw Mr. Ralph Wellman had a narrow escape from death. Lightning struck the house, entering his bedroom on the wire, and the bed - lamp burst into flames. He was able to extinguish it without difficulty and the damage amounted to a smashed switch box and some burned out fuses.

65 Years Ago

A person who was peddling goods through here the other day was summoned to appear before a magistrate for peddling without a license. The case was to be called today, but we are informed he has left town. It is said that other parties are likely to be summoned, charged with a similar offence.

*****

A number of the members of Stirling Lodge No. 239, I.O.O.F., went to Frankford on Tuesday evening and instituted a Lodge of the order at that place, assisted by some members from Belleville Lodge. The new lodge starts with a membership of thirty-one. Mr. A.M. Chapman was installed as N.G. of the Lodge.

*****

The hay crop has been rather light in most places, though some farmers have secured a fairly good crop. For the grain crops reports are various. The crop is now being harvested, and while some state that the yield will be light, others say there will be a fair yield. The straw is short, and will not be heavy to handle.

*****

While many crops of strawberries were more or less of a failure this season, the crop of J. Frappy of River Valley was a most successful one. The aggregate of two pickings alone was about 6000 boxes, and the pickings extended through a period of over a month. About 80 boxes were picked on July 26th, a most remarkable yield for so late a date. Some remarkable records were made by pickers, quite a number of the experienced ones picking over 120 boxes in a day, and a few going high above that mark. The soil and location are ideal for both strawberries and raspberries, and the slope of the land tends to prevent extremes of temperature, which is so destructive to small fruit. As Mr. Frappy intends to quit farming he is offering his property for sale. The advertisement will be found in another column.

TOO YOUNG TO DIE

"Please do something, we're too young to die."

That's the closing line of a letter from two young Ontario school-girls afraid of pollution.

They had been talking about it in class and somebody mentioned hearing that in 25 years everyone will have to have regular needles to counteract pollution.

Pollution is a threat to our environment, make no mistake about that.

But for the sake of impressionable and trusting little children, don't make a bogeyman out of air and water pollution.

It's easy to resort to scare tactics. They are nice and dramatic. They have an impact on people -- for a while.

But in the long run, they turn people off. People who are scared too often just don't listen anymore -- not even to the sensible words they should hear.

Scare tactics even turn me off and it's my job to be interested in pollution control.

There's a commercial short film out on the market. It's beautifully done and it has a dynamite charge of impact. It pictures a ravaged world, overcrowded with poisonous air and water. One man sets up a little environment in a greenhouse, but the people and rats and the rest of the dying world break in and ravage the last little ark of nature.

As I said, it is beautifully done. But it is scare propaganda and, in my opinion, it does more harm than good.

There's a line from Coleridge's Ancient Mariner I'm fond of. It's about a man who looks uneasily over his shoulder and it goes like this:

"And having looked, walks on
And turns no more his head,
Because he knows some nameless fiend
Doth close behind him tread."

Well pollution is not a nameless fiend. It's something that can be measured. It can be neutralized. It can be cut off at the source.

And there are people all over the world working against pollution -- working so that all the horror stories about pollution will eventually sound the same as the story of Little Red Riding Hood and the Big Bad Wolf.

Remember, people used to be afraid of the Wolf once.

Come to think of it, you might also remember what happened to the boy who cried "Wolf" once too often.

It got him!

MRS. MARGARET DUNHAM

Following a six-month illness, Mrs. Margaret Dunham of R.R. 5, Stirling, died Wednesday July 26, in Campbellford Memorial Hospital. She was 87.

Active in church work, she was a former member of the Women's Institute of Wellman's United Church and for years was the recorder of the cradle roll there.

She was born and educated in Burnbrae, Seymour Township, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Wallace. Her husband, Charles Dunham predeceased her. She had lived at R.R. 5, Stirling for the past 65 years.

She is survived by nine children: Reginald, Tweed; Mrs. Gordon (Hazel) Peelow, R.R. 5, Bancroft; Mrs. Ira (Dorothy) Althouse, Peterborough; Mrs. James (Florence) Maidment, Port Hope; Clarence, Stirling; Mrs. Charles (Leafa) Bailey and Carl Dunham, both of R.R. 3, Stirling; and Mrs. Byron (Bernice) Seeley and Jack Dunham of R.R. 5, Stirling.

She had 20 grandchildren, 30 great - grandchildren and one great great grandchild.

She was the sister of William Wallace of Torohto and George Wallace, Clayton Wallace and Mrs. Neil (Rose) Third, all of Campbellford.

The funeral was held Saturday from the Hogle Funeral Home. Interment was in Wellman's Cemetery.

Proper clothing is as important to your safe·ty as just about any guard or safety device, St. John Ambulance advises. Snug fitting clothing and short sleeves are preferred around moving machinery or equipment.

Workers can do their part for safety by conducting a safety inspection at their work stations before each work period, St. John Ambulance suggests. In this way unsafe conditions can be corrected before an accident results.

Datsun 1600

The Datsun 1600 4-door Sedan is a car with some pretty obvious virtues. The extra head, hip and knee room makes it perfect for full-size families on the go, for instance. Four doors, four passengers. And a trunk for all the luggage and groceries.

So easy to drive it's the commuter's companion. So engineered it out-classes its price. So tough we race it.

The best way to stop any car is with disc brakes. They resist fade on long downhills and the "squeegee" action of the pads helps them shed water for quicker, straighter bad weather stops. We put our discs on the front wheels where most of the braking force is exerted.

Our 4-wheel fully independent suspension does several things — it absorbs road shock, keeps you on even keel and comfortable on rough pavement.

BELLEVILLE - ONTARIO

Jeffs - McFaul

Barbara Jane McFaul, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Mc. Faul, R. R. 4, Marmora, and Larry Grant Jeffs, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ross Jeffs exchanged wedding vows in a pretty ceremony at Spring Brook United Church on Saturday, July 29, at 11:30 a.m.

Officiating clergyman was Rev. W.C. Cox. Soloist was Miss Ann Willman, Brooklin, Ont., while the organist was Mrs. Clarence Thomson, Campbellford.

Baskets of gladioli, daisies and snapdragons in pinks, mauves and white adorned the church for the wedding.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor length gown of white silk organza over taffeta, featuring an empire waist, high neckline and short, puffed sleeves. Embroidery, with a mauve ribbon ran down the front of the dress and the long train was edged with lace and mauve ribbon. She wore an embroidered pill-box headdress and shoulder-length veil, and carried a cascade of white daisies, mauve pom-poms and trailing ivy.

The matron of honor was Mrs. Lothar Colberg of Mississauga, sister of the bride, who wore a floor length gown of embroidered mauve, Swiss organdy empire-waisted, with short, puffed sleeves. Her white picture hat was trimmed with material similar to that used in her dress. She carried a basket of white shasta daisies, mauve pom-poms and baby's breath.

The bridesmaids, Miss Lorraine Jeffs of Belleville, sister of the groom, and Miss Paulette Linn of Kingston, were dressed similar to the matron of honor.

The groomsman was Terry Peters of Napanee while the ushers were Lothar Colberg of Mississauga and David Jeffs of Stirling, brother of the groom.

At the reception at St. Andrew's United Church Hall, Marmora, the bride's mother received the guests wearing an egg-shell embroidered English crimplene dress, with a corsage of pink sweetheart roses.

The mother of the groom was attired in a brown Alencion lace over metallic beige dress, and a corsage of Woburn Abbey roses.

For a honeymoon to points north, the bride chose a long, empire - waisted, peasant - style dress of purple flowered polyester and matching accessories.

Out of town guests attending the wedding came from Pembroke, Oshawa, Mississauga, Calgary, Napanee, Peterborough, Port Hope, Frankford, Campbellford, Belleville, Hampton, Sudbury, Bancroft, Havelock, Toronto, Ottawa and Newmarket.

Upon their return, the happy couple will take up residence at 243 Foster Ave., Belleville.

Real estate income up

Some people might think that investors - those people with capital - enjoyed the largest increases in earnings. To the contrary, the latest data show that income increases from investments were the lowest of 27 occupation categories. The biggest gains between 1965 and 1968 were real estate enterpreneurs followed closely by the professions and government employees according to the Department of National Revenue.

This information is contained in the just-released 1972 edition of the Canadian Consumer Loan Association and the Federated Council of Sales Finance Companies.

The ten occupations which were rewarded with the largest percentage increases in average incomes between 1965 and 1968 were: Real Estate plus 30.0%, Dentists plus 28.5%, Teachers and professors plus 26.5%,Accountants plus 26.4%, Federal Government plus 26.1%, Doctors and surgeons plus 25.6%, Lawyers and notaries plus 23.0%, Provincial government plus 22.5%, Municipal government plus 20.6%, and Recreational services plus 18.6%.

Starting at the bottom of the heap were these ten occupations: Investors -4.8%, Fishermen -3.8%, Entertainers and artists -1.5%, Finance plus 0.9%, Wholesale trade plus 1.7%, Salesmen plus 2.3%, Farmers plus 2.6%, Public Utilities plus 3.3%, Pensioners plus 4.1%, Manufacturing plus 5.5%.

Pay increases are thought of as a "reward for improvement." Most of us would have expected the statistics to show that our society had given a "back o' the hand" to pensioners, fishermen, farmers and artists. But few of us would have expected to see their ranks had been joined by manufacturers, salesmen and finance men - and led by investors. Most of us would think these occupations would be enjoying fat pay increases similar to those gained by professionals and government employees. Not so.

Even over the longer term, between 1961 and 1968, the compiled tax returns show that, of the 27 occupations, the smallest increases in average incomes were awarded to Investors plus 3.1%, Entertainers and artists plus 3.8%, Wholesale trade plus 4.4%, Pensioners plus 8.6%, and Manufacturing plus 15.5%. The average incomes of investors dropped from 10th place in 1961 to 16th in 1968.

The other 22 occupations - including farmers and fishermen - all had increases of 20% over the seven - year period. Professionals earned between 50 and 70 per cent more in 1968 than in 1961, and government employees between 40 and 50 per cent more.

Of course, people earn and spend dollars, not percentages, and the average incomes of fishermen, farmers and pensioners stand 24th, 25th and 27th on the list of 27 for 1968 with average incomes of $5291., $5260, and $3505. respectively. In contrast, the $12,175 increase in average incomes paid to doctors and surgeons (1968 over 1961) was greater than the total average income of 21 of the 27 occupational categories in 1968.

Cheese factory gets grant

Continued production of high-quality Canadian Cheddar cheese in Frontenac County was assured when the Harrowsmith Cheese Factory was approved for an ARDA grant.

The announcement was made jointly by Hon. William A. Stewart Ontario's Minister of Agriculture and Food, and Hon. Jean Marchand, Canada's Minister of Regional Economic Expansion.

The Harrowsmith Cheese Factory Limited has proven to be a valuable asset to the community. The ARDA grant will enable this enterprising family-owned firm to build a larger plant and install modern processing equipment. When the expansion program is completed, the company will provide continued employment for 19 to 25 people and a market outlet for milk produced by area farmers. At a time when other cheese factories are closing down this company has expanded and with new facilities should continue to grow.

This project is eligible for 50-50 cost sharing between the two senior levels of government under the terms of the 1970-75 Federal - Provincial Rural Development Agreement. It has been recommended by the Ontario Milk Commission and ARDA Branch, Ontario Ministry of Agriculture and Food, and approved by the Ontario Development Corporation, the Ontario Water Resources Commission, and the Ontario Ministry of the Environment.

Drug L-dopa not a cure

Recent reports published in the news media that the drug levodopa (L-dopa) has been found to cure psoriasis were greatly exaggerated, according to a spokesman for Ontario dermatologists.
Dr. Donald Rosenthal of Hamilton, chairman of the section on dermatology of the Ontario Medical Association, said the reports gave false hopes to people suffering from psoriasis, a chronic and recurrent scaly condition of the skin.
The news report, originating in Montreal, dealt with a controlled trial in the use of a combination of L-dopa and Ro 4-4602 in patients over a very short period of time.
"While the results of this treatment on one small series of patients by two Montreal physicians show some promise," Dr. Rosenthal said, "a great deal of further investigation will be necessary before it can become an accepted method of treatment. The drug L-dopa has significant side-effects and we must proceed with great caution." He added that the treatment will remain experimental and strictly controlled until sufficient research has been done to assure a reasonable degree of safety for patients.
L-dopa is used in the treatment of parkinsonism (shaking palsy), and the current experiments resulted from its effects on patients suffering both parkinsonism and psoriasis.

A FORUM ABOUT MATURE WOMEN

DETACHED FROM FAMILY

Dear Margaret Brookfield:

I have two children. My husband earns a comfortable salary, keeps the bills paid and is a devoted father. I'm active in various types of volunteer work. Recently I spent a short time in the hospital for minor surgery. On returning home, I found myself moody, depressed, insecure, self critical and detached from my family. I'm afraid to tell my doctor because, when a series of depressive moods like this hit me once before, he suggested I see a psychiatrist. I disregarded that idea because I felt we couldn't afford the long-range expenses that were involved. I can't understand why a brief hospital stay should trigger such a depressive state. I can't understand why I'm suddenly so dissatisfied with my life. Might I be predisposed to this because of my past depressive experiences?

S.P.

Dear S.P.:

There are depressions and there are depressions. Most pass in a few days and are quickly forgotten. But when a depression lingers on, it might require some medical attention. What should receive top priority is not the money but the equilibrium of your entire family. Serious depressions affect not only the person involved, but the adults and children around them as well. Why not make an appointment with your family doctor? Talk to him frankly about how you feel. Ask him about the possible forms of treatment available to you. And don't put it off.

The majority of the safety "golden rules" that you learn at your work are applicable to most off-the-job recreational situations, St. John Ambulance observes.

MR. AND MRS. MORDEN BROUGH

Brough - Barnard

Reverend Abel Parsons officiated at the marriage ceremony in Emmanuel United Church, Foxboro, on Saturday, July 15, 1972 at 12 noon, when Linda Lee Brough, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Morden Brough, R.R. 2, Stirling was united in marriage to Lawrence Arthur Barnard, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Barnard, R.R. 5, Madoc.

Traditional wedding music was played by Mrs. Robert Sills who also accompanied the soloist, Miss Elsie Barnard.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a boufant gown designed with a French lace empire bodice with a portrait neckline and long lily-pointed sleeves. Her full organza skirt worn over many crinolines was complemented with lace appliques carried through on her full length, lace edged, silk illusion veil, caught to a French Guipure lace headdress showered with pearls and Bavarian crystals. She carried a cascade bouquet of yellow and white carnations and stephanotis.

The matron of honour, Mrs. Annamae Barnard, Oshawa, and the bridesmaids Miss Lorna Follwell, Belleville, and Miss Kaylene Foster of Havelock were all cousins of the bride. They wore identical gowns in maize sata peau with scoop necklines and full bodice and sleeves. The inset at waist was trimmed with blue and yellow embroidered flowers. The full skirt was enhanced with a flounce at the bottom of the hemline. They carried nosegays of white and yellow 'mums.

The bridegroom was attended by his brother, Allan Barnard of Oshawa. Ushers were George Partridge, Kingston, and Wayne Barnard, Brooklin, brother of the groom.

The reception was held in the church hall. To receive the guests the bride's mother chose a sleeveless pink delustered silk dress with lace overblouse, matching accessories and a corsage of pink sweetheart roses and white carnations.

The groom's mother was attired in a navy lace dress, white accessories and a corsage of pink sweetheart roses and white carnations.

For the wedding trip to Niagara Falls and Lake Placid the bride chose a pleated mauve and white dress, white accessories and a corsage of yellow roses and stephanotis.

On their return Mr. and Mrs. Barnard will live at 169 North Street, Stirling.

Previous to her recent marriage Mrs. Lawrence Barnard (nee Linda Lee Brough) was honoured at a presentation in Belleville by former classmates. A miscellaneous shower was given by Mrs. Clare Treverton, Plainfield, with co-hostess Miss Marlene Tufts, R.R. 2, Stirling, and a presentation by the staff of 3A, Trenton Memorial Hospital. A trousseau tea was given by the bride's mother and a rehearsal party was held at the home of the bridegroom's parents.

Dollars and Good Sense

When the economic news is bad and when the job market is tight, people obviously spend more time worrying about their own circumstances and their future. In such times, people tend to hang onto as much of their money as they can as a safeguard against an emergency.

Today, even though the economic news is getting better, millions of people are still saving an extraordinarily high percentage of their paychecks. The savings institutions have had unprecedented growth during the last few years.

How about you? How much money do you have in a savings account? How much should you have? The average today is around $1500.

Such an account is essentially an emergency fund to backstop you in case of unexpected financial emergencies. How much should be saved, therefore, depends on a number of circumstances.

Are there circumstances where you might need large sums of money, literally at a moments notice? What other forms of financial protection do you have?

If the family provider should lose a job, how long might it be before another could be found? Are there other members of the household that work or could find employment in an emergency?

Your amount of emergency savings depends on your careful answers to these kind of questions. The sum could be as low as a few hundred dollars for a young working couple with no big financial obligations or as high as six months salary for an older family.

Stirling Legion hall being enlarged

Stirling Legion is expanding and when the new addition is completed, the floor space will be almost double the present amount.

The addition, valued at about $15,000 is being constructed at the east end of the present building. Local contractor Weiger Dejong is supervising the work, but is not hired as contractor. Last weekend the members spent their time building roof trusses, with the assistance of Harry Cooke's portable generator while the power was off.

The extension is being financed primarily through the membership of the branch, and as much work as possible is being done by the members. The original building, which is about 15 years old, was built in the same manner for about $3,500.

As part of the expansion, the parking lot was enlarged before the building work started.

Legion spokesman George Noble said this week that assistance would be welcomed from any member or non-member during the construction. Anyone with services to offer should contact Mr. Dejong.

Senior Citizens are treated

The Senior Citizens were made very happy last Thursday when they received two large boxes of chocolates from Roy Thrasher, one of our oldest members, who was enjoying his birthday at The Towers where he is spending his retirement. Roy is happiest when he can make others happy. We appreciated this kindness and we all sang the birthday song for him.

The sympathy of our club is extended to John Holmes in his recent bereavement.

For lunch we blew our club's fund for ice cream. Ross Hoard and Gord Bailey also provided cheese and cookies.

The prize winners for the day were Mary Cook, John Kane, Iva Ayrhart and Jack Senior.

Test Noise Levels

Tractors were tested for noise levels recently for the Prince Edward Soil and Crop Improvement Association.

Norman Robinson of the Workman's Compensation Board in Picton checked levels on a number of new and old tractors using a noise recording meter.

The request originated with an assocaition member who was considering the purchase of a new tractor and was very concerned with the noise level.

There was quite a range of noise level found and most of the readings were over the acceptable level for continual exposure to tractor noise of 85 decibels.

The highest level of noise on all tractors was recorded off the generator. It was found of the places tested on the machines the noise at the generator exceeded the noise at the muffler on all the new tractors.

Muffler noise was not checked on the old tractors.

There was quite a difference for noise levels with the cab on the tractor. When the cab was closed and the engine running at the rated RPM the noise rated from 84 to 88 decibels on different tractors. On smaller tractors without the cab most readings were 90 to 92 decibels.

Wellman's Black Knights to celebrate Derry Day

Members of Wellman's Royal Black Preceptory 747 will be among those from this area attending the annual commemoration of the closing of the gates of Londonderry in 1688, being held this year in Shawville, Quebec, under the auspicies of BBP 696.

Delbert Mumby, Stirling, who is county master of Hastings County Chapter, including Wellman's, Marmora, Madoc, Queensborough and West Huntingdon said Tuesday that the bus hired by the county is over subscribed, but the extra people will be accommodated by a second bus from Norwood. A bus from Hastings and also Trenton are both reported sold out.

The commemoration is sponsored jointly by the preceptory in Shawville, which is a part of the provincial jurisdiction of Eastern Ontario, and the provincial chapter. The closing of the gates and the subsequent seige of Londonderry was the opening battle in the religious wars in what is now Northern Ireland, in the late 17th century.

Buys home

A real estate deal of interest was completed recently when Mr. Charles Owen and Miss Gwen Owen of Toronto purchased the home of William Vardy of town. The owners have since taken possession and Mr. Vardy has taken up residence at the Senior Citizens Unit in the village.

New Frankford Bridge Groundwork Prepared

FRANKFORD — Work has commenced in clear the site for the erection of the new bridge at Frankford. Trees are being cleared from both sides of the river. At the moment the trees are being dumped into the village garbage dump.

William Rose, Reeve, suggested they should be put at the back of the dump where it is marsh land.

"This will not pollute run off water and will help to balance the dump," he said.

Councillor Harry Wickson suggested the trees could be sold for chipping as pulp for paper. This idea will be suggested to the contractor.

To make way for the approach to the bridge from the west side of the river, a fire hydrant will have to be moved. Mr. Wickson said a verbal estimate had been received of $800 to remove the hydrant, cap it, and relocate it further up the street.

"That is ridiculous," said Mr. Rose. "I know that figure will not be accepted by the Department of Transport." He also noted that two separate estimates should be submitted, one to remove and the other to install a fire hydrant.

Mr. Rose also pointed out that the valve will have to be removed and the water pipe capped. "It cannot be left buried in the ground."

The Department of Transport allows a grant for this work based on the fact that the hydrant has an estimated life span of 60 years. The Department will allow for the unused portion of that span. For example, if the hydrant had been in use for 15 years, then an allowance of 45 of the 60 years would be made.

Quinte Exhibition centre of attraction

BELLEVILLE - The Quinte Exhibition this year celebrates its 151st Birthday with more Quinte style, vim, vigor and vitality than ever before.

The big annual Agricultural showcase opened to the public at Exhibition Park here at 5 p.m. Wednesday, August 9, and then flourishes in full swing for four full days and nights - Thursday, August 10; Friday, August 11; Saturday, August 12 and Sunday, August 13.

The colorful week will be packed with activities throughout for old and young alike. Things to do vary from riding the wooden merry-go-round horses to betting on the live models.

In order for the Exhibition to function smoothly for the best part of a week it takes the active participation of 1000 adults and youngsters. And as many farm livestock including horses, cattle, poultry and birds with their handlers.

For example the grand parade preceding the official opening ceremony in front of the grandstand in the evening involves more than 500 personnel, 100 horses with costumed riders, floats, bands and a variety of carnival - oriented equipment which emphasizes the genuine Mardas Gras send off.

A new comer this year in attendance is Conko, the friendly Conklin clown. In his bright red-white-and-black suit, Conko appears here and there spreading the infectious gaiety of Exhibition days around the city.

Thursday is Kids Day. All rides on the Conklin midway will be half-price until 6 p.m. for the kids.

While the fair grounds and midway are open from 9 a.m. until midnight, the exhibits and displays are open from 1 p.m. on.

Poultry judging commenced at 9 a.m., and cattle at 7 p.m.

The grandstand will really be hopping Thursday evening, when Paul Riddell and his Hell Drivers give one of their famous death-defying shows.

Friday is Consumers-Producers Day, highlighted by cattle shows in the afternoon and evening.

Paul Riddell and the Hell Drivers return to challenge local entrants in an International Demolition Derby.

Parimutual betting on harness racing highlights Saturday's events. Preferred and invitation racing will take place at 8 and 11 p.m. In addition, cattle shows will take place in the afternoon and evening.

Sunday is Real Fun Value Day. Conklin and the bottlers of Coca-Cola get together to offer everyone a Real Fun Value Day. Using a special coupon picked up wherever a person buys Coke, people may get $3.25 worth of rides for only $1.50 plus three Coke bottle caps or ring pulls.

It is also Family Day. Gates open at 1 p.m. for what will be the perfect setting for old-fashioned family reunions.

A first for Belleville, the Eastern Ontario Dairy Goat Breeders' Association is sponsoring a dairy goat show from 1 to 6 p.m. Goat milk is gaining wide popularity as a health food for hospital convalescents.

In the evening, a Music Festival will take place in the grandstand at 7 and 9 p.m. Many well known personalities will be featured in a program of gospel, folk, country and western music.

The show will star Lee Moore and his W.W.V.A. Jamboree from Wheeling, West Virginia; Don Reed, 12 year old Canadian Novelty Fiddling Champion from Sudbury; Donnie Lee Bailes, pony star, and the Country Junction U.S.A. television show; and Don Messer Jubilee star Brent Williams.

Throughout the Quinte Exhibition, persons from miles around will be attracted to the fair by a 150 foot high multicoloured hot air balloon, which will be tethered to the fair grounds. The balloon measures 40 feet in diameter, and is equipped with high-intensity light to warn airplanes and to attract fair-goers.

After five exciting days, the Quinte Exhibition, with its whirling rides, cuddly teddy bears, hot buttered corn, and singing Calliope draws to a close Sunday night.

Paving Improves Village

One of the things which says a lot about the pride a community has in itself is the condition of its streets.

We have always been impressed by the generally fine care which the village of Stirling has taken of its streets. We suspect visitors have noted the same thing.

Street building and maintenance is a costly business and therefore councils must go about the matter piecemeal. This village, however, appears to have a well planned street paving program, with several streets surfaced each year.

Rodgers drive last week received a new asphalt surface and St. James Street was started. Paving adds to the appearance of a road, eliminates costly maintenance and saves a great deal of wear and tear on our automobiles.

When we drive through some of the other villages of Hastings County, particularly on the side streets, the fact is even more strongly driven home that Stirling has a superior road system.

While residents of this village may have just complaint about some things, there is every reason to be proud of our streets.

65 Years Ago

A number of our villagers spent yesterday at Oak Hill Lake. The storm in the afternoon was very severe there, and some of the tents of the campers were blown down.

*****

Mr. Anderson, County Crown Attorney, was severely injured in a runaway last Wednesday. While driving home from Trenton the horse, scared by an automobile, bolted, and Mr. Anderson was thrown out, alighting on his head and shoulder. He will be laid up for some weeks.

*****

Word received from Mr. J.S. Morton, who is holidaying in New Ontario, dated last Friday says: "Just arrived at a point 40 miles from New Liskeard. Our neighbors are bears, wolves and moose. Am enjoying life in a tent with continual rain since coming out. No startling experiences except carrying a pack 12 miles through mud and mire."

*****

The thunderstorm of yesterday afternoon was accompanied by hail, and considerable damage was done in the country to the west and south of the village, many panes of glass being broken in farm houses, and grain and fruit crops injured. In this village there were only a few panes of glass broken. Some of the hail was as large as walnuts, and most of it like marbles.

*****

Mr. Meiklejohn's new block is being pushed rapidly to completion. All the shops were spoken for long ago. The one next the hardware store is to be occupied as a post office, a much needed improvement, as Stirling has had for years too cramped a place for a post office. The next shop to the west is to be occupied by Mr. J.L. Ashley as a grocery; the next west by Mrs. Martin for millinery rooms; and the west one by Mr. M. Bird, cheese buyer and insurance agent.

Destroy any chestnut-brown pupae found among trises, when dividing the clumps, for these undoubtedly are borers ready to hatch into moths that will soon be laying eggs.

TICKLE BOX® by Ted Trogdon

"Lay off the organic foods for a while."

Keeping it clean

with Bill Dodds

EVERY LITTER BIT....

Do you get the feeling somebody's trying to tell you something?

Have you noticed the white signs on the bright green litter receptacles? They read, 'Use this amazing new pollution control device. (Keep Ontario beautiful)'.

How about the other anti-litter signs on trash bins supplied by the can people -- or the buttons and T-shirts and stickers that are part of their anti-litter campaign? Their phrase is, 'Make the Scene Clean.'

Then there's the television commercials -- the Ontario commercial that starts with a dinosaur and runs through a cartoon history of man and litter -- the Federal Government one with the kid on his tricycle cleaning up after a litterbug.

The anti-litter message is on radio, in your newspaper and on billboards. It's printed on cigarette packages, candy wrappers and package labels. It's pressed into glass bottles and stamped into the metal soft drink cans.

And the whole campaign is aimed at getting the message into one place where it's never been before -- stamping it indelibly into the brain of every litterbug in Ontario.

When I think of the mess some of them can create, I'm sometimes tempted to suggest we stamp the message into their heads with a sledgehammer.

But seriously, the only thing we haven't tried in our attempts to get through to these people, is stuffing the message into bottles and throwing them overboard. The trouble with that is, that they throw so many bottles away themselves, ours would never be noticed.

Still, somebody has been listening.

I saw a car stopped at a traffic light the other day. It had U.S. plates and an empty cigarette package came sailing out of the driver's window.

Two couples on the curb -- youthful fashion clothes in ratty denim and frizzy hair -- stopped their conversation and turned. One boy walked into the street, picked up the package and passed it in the car window.

"You dropped something," he said as the driver dumbly accepted the crumpled pack. Then, as the light turned green, he stepped back to rejoin his friends.

If we get a few more people like that around, we might just get somewhere at keeping it clean.

Remote village receives library

GOGAMA, Ont. -- This remote northern community got a public library this year in an unusual way. It arrived by train.

The Gogama Library, 4000 volumes in a converted Canadian National car, is the work of seven students from Cambrian College in Sudbury, 120 miles to the south. With a $12,800 federal Opportunities for Youth grant, the group canvassed community businesses, universities and libraries for additional support and had the library open and functioning June 12.

The project originated last winter when six of the students studying library technology, learned from their instructors that Gogama was interested in having a library. Soon after, they went to the bush-surrounded town and called a meeting of its citizens (there is no mayor or town council) to determine what type of books should go on the shelves.

Cambrian College donated a van, $500 for books, furniture, supplies and technical assistance. Shelving and paint were donated by private firms. Books came from the national library in Ottawa, Imperial Order of the Daughters of the Empire in Sudbury, McMaster and Western Universities, a publishing firm, and other sources.

The railway car is rented for the three-month summer period for one dollar from CN. The students spent several weeks in Sudbury making it over from a rule instruction car to a cosy library that also feeds and sleeps its staff.

When the refurbishing was done CN hauled the car to Gogama and placed it on a special siding of its own near the centre of town.

When the inaugural ceremony was held June 10, the town's entire population of 800 seemed to be there.

The library operates six days a week. Besides lending books, the staff is also engaged in community recreation activities. There are free weekly films and dances, and children from the nearby Mattagami Indian Reserve visit every Wednesday.

As well as the seven students, three Gogama women are also at work on this OFY project.

Want chicken legislation expanded

Producers of roasting chicken (over 5.5 pounds live weight) have strongly endorsed the extension of regulations presently applying to the marketing of broiler chickens in Ontario, to include the marketing of all chicken. This announcement was made recently by the Farm Products Marketing Board, Ontario Ministry of Agriculture and Food.

Recently the Ontario Broiler Chicken Producers' Marketing Board and some roaster producers submitted a proposal to the Farm Products Marketing Board that the marketing of all chicken in Ontario should be regulated as is the case in most other Provinces. The present broiler chicken plan, initiated in 1965, provides for quota marketing and pricing of chicken up to 5.5 pounds live weight. Regulating the marketing of all chicken will not only bring order to the Ontario chicken meat industry, but will also allow market sharing agreements with other provinces for chicken meat production.

The Farm Products Marketing Board mailed 214 ballots to roaster producers of record to obtain their opinion on the acceptability of the above proposal. 192 ballots were returned and 176 (91.6%) were in favor. The Farm Products Marketing Board will recommend to the Minister of Agriculture and Food that the present Broiler Chicken Marketing Plan be amended to apply to all chicken.

Lack of knowledge of safe procedures is the major indirect cause of accidents, according to St. John Ambulance. Do not rely on self-teaching, but rather learn the safe way from an expert.

River Valley WI

(By Mrs. Percy MacMullen)

Mrs. Roy Tucker was hostess on Thursday, August 3rd at the Centre for the August Meeting of the River Valley Women's Institute. Several bouquets of garden flowers added beauty to the room. Twenty members and two preschool children were in attendance.

Mrs. George Grills opened the meeting with the Institute Ode and Mary Stewart Collect.

Mrs. Gerald Brooks read the July minutes and Mrs. J.L. Donohoe gave the financial report.

Three cards have been sent for illness and sympathy. The group signed a card for Mrs. Norman Rosebush who is in hospital.

The secretary distributed the summer issue of the Home and Country magazine.

The conveners reports for citizenship, The Chatelaine story about the Queen was given by Mrs. Vernon Harry. For Education, a story of the construction of the new school in Stirling to be completed early in 1973 was given by Mrs. Ernest Carr. Consumer Affairs was given by Mrs. Glenn Bush, concerning the ban on three quart milk containers.

The Public Relations officer displayed pictures in the Countrywoman Magazine re the Lestrywoman Landrover. This showed the happy faces of the people in one village of Maseru where a new club was organized with 52 women. Later a demonstration re cookery, wool work and patchwork was held with 100 men, women and children in attendance at Maseteng. There was no road but the Landrover slowly wound its way to the village.

For friendship links Mrs. MacMullen read a press clipping from Abbot's Leigh W.I. where they had an instruction to make salads which were sold at the close of their meeting.

Mrs. Roy Bush, curator, reported that the pictures taken at the 4-H Club meeting in July were exceptionally good. She would like each member to bring one written historical item to the next meeting for the Tweedsmuir Book.

Mrs. Roy Tucker, A.C.W.W. Convenor, read an article from the magazine which told of the action of the Associated Country Women of the world and the Royal Commonwealth Society to connect child blindness from malnutrition. The idea is to save the children's eyes. Lack of vitamin 'A' is the largest cause of blindness amongst infants in the developing countries of Africa, Asia and South America. Last year over 10,000 babies in India were blinded. Funds are needed to educate the mothers to use green vegetables and the right food for their children. The food is cheap but the mothers do not understand nutrition.

The July Penny Fund was $2.51. Gloria Harry passed the penny jar.

The Institute will sponsor a collection for the Blind in Ontario in October.

Mrs. Glenn Bush, convenor of the swimming project, reported 43 children paid four dollars each for the pool. The Institute paid $160.00 for transportation by bus. The seniors will complete their swimming later this month. The awards will be mailed this year in place of a special night at the Centre. The expenses of the courses will be paid. A message of thanks will be sent to Miss Jean Donohoe for her typing assistance.

Several items of business were discussed and others will be decided in September.

Final plans for the wedding on Saturday were completed.

The usual donation to Stirling Fair Board was authorized to be paid and the Crest Corner in the Stirling News-Argus.

The September meeting will be held at the Centre. Robert Ord, Barrister, Belleville, will be guest speaker and members may invite friends.

Mrs. Roy Tucker displayed several pictures of wedding dresses which won the Edie Awards in Toronto and were designed by her daughter Connie Tucker and her boss.

Miss Alice Heasman, program convenor, introduced Mrs. Percy MacMullen who gave a message and a demonstration re the Marmoraton Mine. She showed several samples of iron ore, the waste material and the pellets that are shipped by rail to Picton. The Bethlehem Steel Mine in Marmora was started in May 1950 when a tract of 290 acres on two farms was purchased.

Diamond drilling was started in June 1950 and completed in August 1951. The survey, forty drill holes ranging from 460 to 1800 feet in depth, outlined sufficient quantities of ore to start open-pit mining operations.

Later Bethlehem's holdings in Marmora were increased to 1900 acres.

One hundred acres of scrub timber were cleared in September 1951 and by March 1952 the heavy rock moving equipment was brought in on two electrically powered Rotary drills.

About 22 million tons of rock were removed to create a pit roughly half a mile long, a quarter mile wide and about 130 feet deep. Twenty - one rear dump trucks, each with a 22 ton capacity, hauled the stripped rock to the waste dump. The crushing of the rock is done in three crushers and Mrs. MacMullen gave a discriptive account of this part of the work, which finally ends in small balls or pellets of Iron Ore. The plant can produce 1750 pellets every 24 hours and this process maintains a high iron content of fine concentrate and the product is of almost uniform size.

After the pellets are cooled and screened they are loaded into dump cars for rail shipment to Picton. One train of 25 or 30 cars is run daily except Sunday. Here they are loaded in a 16,000 ton ore carrier and forwarded to the steel mills at Lackawanna, New York.

The mine employs approximately 350 men in the mine, mill and shops. The speaker described all the main buildings and said besides offices and dispensary there is a modern change room with showers, washroom facilities and lockers.

These are just a few highlights of her talk and she closed with this message, "a common interest extended to you and to all other people who use automobiles, nails, refrigerators, safety pins or who build new buildings and bridges that are made from steel. Remember behind every steel product that serves you there must be an iron ore mine."

Miss Heasman voiced thanks to Mrs. MacMullen for her informative message.

The roll call was "name an industry in Hastings County."

Miss Heasman then conducted a very interesting contest. This was a jumbled names of 20 industries in Hastings County. They were chosen from Stirling, Madoc, Marmora, Belleville, Bancroft, Trenton, Tweed, Corbyville, Point Anne, and included Riverside Construction at River Valley.

The meeting closed with the Institute Grace. For the social hour Mrs. Tucker and her refreshment committee which included Bessie Bush, Nora Craighead and Florence MacMullen, provided sandwiches, relishes and a cold drink which all enjoyed at long tables set up in the kitchen. Bouquets of small flowers decorated the tables and the hostess provided special tumblers for the beverage.

(5) An evaluation of the petition procedure for initiating a drainage project.

(6) A review of the construction improvement and maintenance procedures under "The Drainage Act" in achieving the objectives.

(7) A review of the appeal procedures under "The Drainage Act".

(8) A review of the financial procedures and assistance under "The Drainage Act" and other drainage programs.

(9) A study of the costs of land drainage and what influences such costs and how they may be reduced, i.e. engineering costs, etc.

(10) An evaluation of construction practices in general and erosion and weed control of drainage ditches in detail.

(11) A review of the administrative practices and methods in carrying out responsibility under "The Drainage Act".

After due study and consideration to recommend such changes in the laws, procedures and processes as in the opinion of the Committee may be necessary and desirable.

The Committee has the intention of visiting all areas in the Province and to hold public hearings on the questions associated with the above terms of reference.

This therefore, is to invite all interested parties, individual or otherwise, to indicate to the Committee, by (AUGUST 15, 1972) their intention to submit written briefs or their desire to attend the hearings and make oral representations.

Institute enjoys picnic

Spring Brook W.I. held their annual picnic Wednesday, July 26th at Crowe River. The hostess Mrs. Bill Barlow, and her husband entertained 17 W.I. members, two visitors and two young girls, Jane McKeown and Sharon McInroy, at their summer cottage.

Owing to the wetness of the ground, the smorgasbord type picnic dinner was served inside the cottage.

Several of the ladies were seen making return trips to the table, and there appeared to be little concern for diets.

After the dinner, one of the visitors, Mrs. Grenville Melklejohn, gave a short talk on the work of the Red Cross in Marmora township and surrounding districts.

Happy birthday was sung to Sharon McInroy who was celebrating her ninth birthday.

A short time of business followed with Mrs. George Williams presiding.

Most of the members spent the rest of the afternoon playing progressive euchre. Those playing for the first time learned too late that in this game there is no time for visiting or meditating. Mrs. Clayton Burkitt won the prize for the man's highest score and Mrs. Fred McKeown for the ladies highest score. The low score prize went to one of the meditators.

After all this exertion tea and lunch were served.

WEEKLY REPORT FROM FOXBORO DISTRICT

CO-OP (BY JACK WOOD)

The term "summer slump" is often applied to the drop in milk production during hot summer months. Heifer growth can also experience a summer slump. There are several reasons this will happen and the reasons will vary from herd to herd.

Young heifers getting most of their feed from pasture are likely to suffer most. This is especially true where the forage consists of a pure grass stand such as fescue. As the plants grow older, they become less palatable; and the digestible energy and protein drop drastically. It is not unusual for digestible protein intake from pasture to drop to less than one fourth of what it was when the grass was young and tender.

A 500 pound heifer requires about 0.9 pounds of digestible protein and eight pounds of TDN to maintain normal growth. Many mid-summer pastures will not provide this level of nutrition. Providing 4 - 6 pounds of CO-OP D & F Cattle Ration daily will often do wonders for growth rates in such heifers. Hay, silage, or liquid supplements should be considered with attention to availability, cost, convenience, and protein content.

New office for authority

The Lower Trent Region Conservation Authority is moving its office headquarters to Campbellford where it has obtained space on the second floor of the town hall.

Since the organization of the authority in 1968, the Trent Region office has been at the home of its Secretary Treasurer, William Lawson, on the Carrying Place Road outside Trenton. But as the office volume grew this accommodation became too crowded.

"We just had to have more office room and when space became available at Campbellford it was decided to move," Mr. Lawson said.

The Campbellford office was opened August 8, but it is expected it will take a few days to get settled.

A one year lease on the second floor Campbellford office space has been taken.

The Lower Trent Region takes in the Trent River watershed from the village of Hastings to the Murray Canal south of Trenton, a distance of 48 miles.

In addition to providing more office space as well as a board room, the move to Campbellford will also provide a separate office for John Wuite who has been working out of Cannifton in his dual role as resources manager for the Moira River Conservation Authority and for the Lower Trent Region.

Mr. Wuite will move his files to Campbellford and will work out of that office three days of the week - Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays and from the Moira office at Cannifton on Tuesdays and Wednesdays.

Bell lines busy in discount period

There are times when success causes problems, and Sunday around noon seems to be one of them when it comes to calling long distance from Stirling.

According to Bell Canada's local manager R.W. Carleton, the company's Sunday bargain calling rates that were introduced last November have been so popular that people are calling more and talking longer, with the result that circuits are often overloaded and calls can't be completed.

The rate for calls dialed direct from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. on Sunday is three-quarters off the regular day rates.

The overload problem is most apparent during Sunday lunchtime (noon) until about 2 p.m., when some callers have been experiencing difficulties.

"It's a frustrating experience when you try to call someone and can't," said Mr. Carleton. "The way to overcome the problem is to place your calls either earlier or later in the day, avoiding the lunchtime peak period. The three-quarter discount is in effect from 8 a.m. until 6 p.m. on Sundays."

Hydro strike goes into ninth week

Bargaining between Ontario Hydro and CUPE Local 1000 continued most of last week in Toronto following the long mid summer holiday break. Late Friday, the talks were adjourned for the weekend.

"A statement from the bargaining team was delivered to my office Friday afternoon," said H.J. Cox, Manager of Frankford area.

"The statement," said Mr. Cox, "revealed that the Provincial mediators had adjourned the talks for the weekend. In the eight days of talks held since August 1st., a number of proposals have been made and some settlements concluded. Both parties were planning to consider their respective positions on all the unsettled items."

"The Ministry of Labour has imposed a news blackout covering the details of the negotiations," Mr. Cox added, "and while that is in effect, we are unable to comment on the details of the talks."

At the weekend, almost 12,000 CUPE members were still off their jobs across Ontario. Last week, there was heavy picketing in the Toronto area where the Union attempted to put 3500 members back to work. Hydro informed the Union that because of strike activity across the Province there was not work available for everybody at the present time. Because there was not work for all, the Union withdrew its offer.

"Much of the work done in Toronto," said Mr. Cox, "is initiated by the 67 area offices, such as our office in Frankford. These offices have been struck now for more than a month and it's easy to understand why there is a lack of work for some of the staff," he added.

This week, striking employees were told by letter that coverage of their pension, life and health insurance plans was being maintained during the strike. Deductions for the benefits are being made when there are sufficient earnings to cover them. When there are insufficient earnings available, the contribution is paid by Hydro and such contributions will be recovered at the first opportunity when the employee returns to work.

The letter also advised the employees that those who had not yet had vacations this year will be expected to take them when the strike is over. Supervisory personnel who have been operating the power system since June have been able in many cases to perform a good deal of the maintenance work, and the backlog of maintenance and service requests has been greatly reduced during the past two weeks.

As of Monday of this week, the strike had reached its 55th day, and by mid week will have lasted for eight weeks.

SIDEWALK CONSTRUCTION

Ron VanLuven, left, and Ralph Adams put the finishing touches on a section of sidewalk along Henry St. in the village. Both work for Ralph Johnson Construction Ltd. which has been contracted to repair a number of sidewalks. Sidewalks on Church, Emma and Charlotte Streets are among those being repaired.

SWEEP workers build observation platform

(BY THOM REYNOLDS)

Development of the Sager Conservation Area, in the Oak Hills southeast of the Oak Hill's Golf Course, has started this summer with the construction of an Observation Deck.

The Observation Deck has been built on a hilltop on the 50-acre Conservation Area purchased by the Lower Trent Region Conservation Authority. The construction of the wooden structure has been carried out by high school and university students as part of a program set up last year by the provincial government. The program, SWEEP, standing for students working in an environmental enhancement program, was set up to acquaint students with the working of local conservation authorities and to provide summer employment.

The deck, measuring 20 x 20 ft. and 3 1/2 to 5 ft. off the ground, gives one of the best views in the region. The deck gives the viewer a 270 degree range taking in Trenton, Belleville, Campbellford and the Marmora Mines. The view from the deck is open on three sides with the fourth side partially blocked by trees.

Students working in the Conservation Area have cleared a large number of Summacs and other trees and brush from the area. A log stairway is also being constructed on the east side of the hill. The stairway will rise to a height of 300 feet.

Senior supervisor of the local SWEEP program, David McBride, has reported that further development will take place next year under the same program. A road will be further developed and a parking area will be constructed. Picnic and washroom facilities will also be set up on the Sager Conservation Area site. A well is to be drilled and stone barbecues will also be constructed.

Seven students started working on the Observation Deck at the end of June and will complete their summer's work the end of this month. Senior Supervisor for the SWEEP program in the Lower Trent Region Conservation Authority is David McBride. Foreman at the Sager Conservation Area site is Paul Vandervoort. Other students involved include Jim Gallivan, Peter Hamilton, Gordon Glover, Peter Hearst, Paul McComb and Donald McBride.

Students working in the Ministry of Natural Resources program applied through their local conservation authority. Students working with the program in the immediate area are earning $2.00 an hour. Their work also includes roadside garbage pickups and on rainy days they spend their time painting at the King's Mill Conservation Area.

The SWEEP program in the Quinte area is a joint effort by the Lower Trent Region Conservation Authority and the Moira River Conservation Authority. Seven other students are working in the Tweed-Huntingdon Township area for the Moira River Authority. Two clerical workers and four technical advisors are also involved in the SWEEP program for the two authorities.

The 14 man force is easily recognizable by their white hard-hats with green eliptical SWEEP emblems.

Bridge is sandblasted

A crew of sandblasters and painters from Toronto have been working on the Front St. bridge this past week. Workmen from McPherson-Andrews Sandblasters Ltd., Toronto, have been engaged by the Department of Highways to sandblast the Hwy. 14 bridge in the village.

Workmen will also apply two coats of primer to the bridge and then will paint the structure green.

This is the fourth bridge that has been sandblasted and painted for the department by the Toronto firm. The workmen have already completed highway bridges at Tweed, Madoc, and on Hwy. 2, east of Belleville.

The firm has hired student help from the Tweed-Madoc area to help with sandblasting and painting operations.

Picton host for course

Prince Edward County planners, industrialists, bankers, elected officials and Chambers of Commerce members are to discuss problems related to municipal growth at Inn on the Bay, Picton, August 22, 23 and 24th.

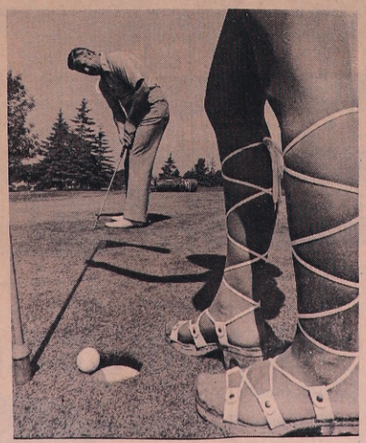
They will attend an Industrial Development Training Course, sponsored by the Ontario Ministry of Industry and Tourism and Federal Department of Economic Expansion. This is the first such activity to be held in the county and one of the first in the region.

William Duggan, Industrial Commissioner, Prince Edward County, said the response received was encouraging because it confirmed interest in development.

Registration in the course is now 20 interested individuals with the number expected to reach 30 for the seminars.

The seminar gets under way at 9 a.m. August 22 with the first day's program to include talks on the economic background for industrial development; the role of the community and organization for industrial development.

NOW THAT'S CONCENTRATION!



Even the lovely legs of Miss CBC, Birgit Schulze, failed to distract Bob Moir, one of CBC-TV's dedicated sports commentators from sinking this 10 foot putt. Bob was out on the green practising prior to his coverage of the Canadian Open and Birgit was used to test his powers of concentration, the proof of which is in the putting.

Senior Citizens club meets

There was a good attendance at Senior Citizens on Thursday. Hubert Andrews called and gave us all an invitation to attend the Sunday eve services at Spring Brook ball park. There is a free bus leaving from the Senior Citizen's home on Church Street at 7 p.m. on Sunday.

Lena Forrestel was a welcome visitor. Her home is in Sudbury and she is visiting her sister Kathleen Ryan.

The lunch committee was Evelyn Finkle, Ann Faulkner, Flossie Geen and Dorothy Summers.

The prizes for the day went to Lenora Williams, Edna Campbell, Dorothy Ross and Hub Faulkner.

Our President, along with a party of his clan, are on their way to the east coast. Hope he doesn't get tangled up with some big fish down there.

Loyalist College will open second building

When students flock back to Loyalist College in Belleville this September, they will find a bright new $3 1/2 million building open for their use.

Building C, second permanent structure on campus, houses much needed facilities - a big new cafeteria, a large gym, and a lounge for students, carefully designed with their interests in mind.

But inspiring the most awe will be the centrepiece of the new building - a vast circular library-resource centre two storeys high, with a mezzanine floor in the form of an encircling balcony reached by a dramatic curved staircase.

Building C is attached to the existing Building B and is built of the same precast concrete, faced on the exterior with marble chips from a Madoc district quarry.

Majority of sub-contractors were local people, resulting, says Dalton Engineering's site foreman James Robertson, in "a high Belleville content" for the buff-colored building.

The cafeteria and gym are adjacent, and the gym can be opened up to increase the capacity of the eating area on festive occasions. Near the staff and student dining areas is the hotel management laboratories with a teaching kitchen and a dining room that seats 40.

At the far end of the building is the spectacular student's lounge, a room with cathedral ceiling and a wall of glass commanding a sweeping view of the east campus.

The floor of the lounge is tiered and covered with a shag rug - conducive to informal floor-sitting. The high ceiling will be hung with panels of fluorescent materials in abstract arrangements.

Tucked away near the library is a semi-circular lecture theatre; its floor, walls and seats entirely covered in deep red carpeting.

Building C will be the administrative centre of the college, with a board room, president's and deans' offices and a computer centre. To house the expanding student population, classrooms have been incorporated into the design, including the drafting department, reading labs, accounting labs and general instructional space.

Peace Park flags pilfered

Vandals destroyed three of the provincial flags which were flying from the standards for the Coat-of-Arms of the provinces along the Avenue of the Provinces in the Lester B. Pearson Peace Park last Tuesday. The Peace Park flag on the hilltop site near the Peace Pagoda Shrine was also taken from the flagstaff by cutting the rope used for raising and lowering it.

Police are looking for a large truck that was seen in the Peace Park during the rainy evening of August 8 and which tracks were imprinted in the grass off the main roadway.

"In any society there are those who build and those who destroy," said Roy Cadwell, Chairman of the park. "A country can only survive as long as there are more builders than destroyers."

This year almost twice as many visitors came to the park as last year and one reason was the attractive display of provincial flags, with the Coat-of-Arms and the flowers of each of the provinces on the standards along the Avenue of the Provinces.

The increase in vandalism in the parks of the province is of concern to all thinking people. The police are continuing to investigate the matter.

Stirling Legion Novice softball team has advanced in its bid for the ORSA finals after defeating Madoc two games to one. Stirling won the first game 19-9 but last Thursday night, Madoc was able to gain a win on their own field, 22-15. On Friday night, Stirling upset Madoc 33-9 in the third game of the playdowns.

Stirling Novices will meet a team from Wardsville for the second game series. The first game will be played on Saturday on neutral grounds in Toronto. Wardsville is located northeast of Chatham.

The Spring Brook Pee Wee team began their OASA playdowns on Tuesday night in Spring Brook against a team from Lansdowne, located between Gananaque and Brockville.

The Stirling Men's team were dropped from a Campbellford Men's tournament on Saturday after Campbellford edged them 2-1 in extra innings. Stirling won their first game on Friday night against Marmora 3-1.

Stirling Bantams dropped out of their OASA playdowns two games straight after Cobourg defeated Stirling 13 in the first game and 10-8 in the second.

In the first game last Tuesday night in Cobourg, the locals three runs were picked up by Rob DeJong, Stan Myers and Wally Blakeley.

On Wednesday night in Stirling, Cobourg defeated Stirling 10-8. Each team had 16 hits but the difference came with Stirling committing eight errors. Glen Detlor picked up a run in the first inning for Stirling while Kevin Solmes, Terry Bailey, Rob DeJong and Stan Myers crossed home plate in the third inning. Richard Whattam, Rob DeJong, and Wally Blakeley picked up runs in the fourth for Stirling.

A new baseball diamond has been set up at the north end of the local Ball Park and a number of girls games have been played on it, in constructing the diamond three teeter-totters, located just beyond second and third base, were removed. The holes left by removing the posts were partially filled in but the gravel has settled leaving six holes, one at least a foot deep.

It has also been noted that there is a need for a new tennis net at the local tennis court at the Ball Park. Two boys from the Frankford area on a number of occasions have demonstrated this need by placing sheets along the string that goes across the court.

Water all plants during a period of drought until the ground is saturated not less than 4 inches in depth; never spray them when the temperature drops suddenly or when northeast winds are blowing, for this encourages mildew.

Loyalist expects 500 retraining students

Service industries have been growing faster than production industries and Ontario's community colleges have been among the first to recognize the trend.

That's why Loyalist College at Belleville has entered the health service field, has begun a hotel management course and is pioneering a unique skill upgrading course which should appeal especially to armed forces technicians.

The college expects to have 500 retraining students, including some 100 retired military men, on its campus by Christmas. With another 800 or more students expected to register for regular day school courses, the total student population will swell to about 1,300.

Training and mental retardation counsellors and registered nursing assistants for this district has been taken over by the college. It marks the beginning of concentration of health care training in community colleges, with Loyalist one of seven similar Ontario colleges specializing in the field.

The nursing assistants' course is now filled, with 35 students registered. The course has attracted mature women who will qualify for provincial licencing in eight months.

Mental retardation counselling is a new occupation and graduates of the two year course are expected to be employed by Prince Edward Heights, the Picton institution for the mentally retarded. Loyalist expects to enrol 70 first-year students.

About 10 students pioneered the hotel, motel and restaurant management course last year, gaining extensive practical experience at the Four Seasons Hotel in Belleville. The three year course will be expanded this September with about 25 first year students getting practical experience at the Four Seasons while the second year students use the hotel management laboratory in the new campus building.

The work experience offered at the Four Seasons this year will be on a full-time basis for one semester. At the college, students will practice using their skills by catering to staff events, conferences and conventions. They will have a liquor licence for banquets.

One of the most exciting new programs is "Project Loyalist," the only course of its kind in Canada. It will enrol 100 recently retired skilled technicians from the armed forces, give them academic credits for their 10 to 20 years' work experience and update their skills to make them eligible for civilian employment.

Project Loyalist was developed by the Dean of Faculty, Paul King, of the college in conjunction with the federal government, and students will receive an allowance from the governement for the 30 to 52 weeks they are on course.

The accelerated engineering programs will qualify graduates for certification by the Ontario Association of Certified Engineering Technician and Technologists as senior technicians in electrical, electronic or mechanical engineering. Accountancy and Business Administration is offered for former military men with service experience in those fields.

V - G will issue Almanacs

Ray Geiger, Philom, the Editor of the Farmers' Almanac, will be visiting Ontario from September 10 to 13 to help in the distribution of the 1973 Canadian edition for it's sponsor, Victoria and Grey Trust Company.

It is possible that no other publication, other than the Bible and dictionary, has been read by more people (well over 4 million copies in 1972) than the Farmers' Almanac. It was almost a way of life for many of our grandparents and great-grandparents with its weather forecasts (there is a special Canadian section), and timing for the planting of crops, and treating of livestock, and then there are calendars, recipes, "wife savers," a fishing guide, history, astrology, astronomy, and last, but not least, the Almanac humour.

Ray Geiger has been the Editor for 39 of the 156 years of publication; there have been just five editors altogether. Ray graduated with honours in philosophy from Notre Dame University in 1932, and joined his father in the family business, Geiger Brothers Printing, Bookbinding, and Advertising Specialties. One of his duties was to assist the Editor of the Farmers' Almanac, and in 1934 when the Editor retired, he asked him to take over.

Much of the material used in the Almanac comes from its army of readers (some 20,000 letters are received each year.) The Bishop of Atlanta is a regular contributor, and so is a long-time inmate of a Kansas Prison (he has lots of time to read and clip, but Ray hopes he is not serving a term for plagiarism.) The recipes and household hints are contributed by the lovely Mrs. Ann Geiger, and the weather predictions are prepared by Harry K. Buie, a former Professor of Astronomy at the University of Florida.

The Farmers' Almanacs are not for sale, but the Canadian edition is distributed free as a good will gesture by Victoria and Grey Trust Company.

CARE aids flood victims

In the wake of the recent flood in Manila and 14 provinces of Luzon Island which authorities have called the worst natural disaster in Philippine history, CARE is rushing emergency aid to the victims, which include 1.2 million refugees.

Canadian Director, Thomas Kines, announced that CARE is "now distributing over 2 1/2 million pounds of emergency food to 250,000 school children in flood affected areas in the Philippine. In another week CARE will commence distribution of an additional 3,600,000 pounds of food in those areas."

With hundreds of lives lost and some 6,000,000 persons affected by the flood, CARE is setting up a special "Philippine Flood Disaster Fund" to help defray costs of the emergency aid. One hundred thousand dollars is urgently needed to cover transportation, distribution and supervision of this critical feeding program.

Contributions may be sent to CARE, Philipine Flood Disaster Fund 63 Sparks St., Ottawa, Ont., KIP 5A6.

To the Citizens of Stirling and Surrounding Area:

In reply to "Who's Who in Belleville" of the last issue of The Stirling News-Argus, we would like to inform you of "Who's Who, in the Dairy business, in Stirling.

Reid's Dairy Co. Ltd. stated that they are the only LOCALLY owned and CANADIAN owned dairy throughout this region.

We would like to inform you, as well as Mr. Armin Quickert of Reid's Dairy Co. Ltd. that Stirling Dairy (as well as a number of smaller dairies in this region) is LOCALLY and CANADIAN owned. The owners of Stirling Dairy have always been Canadian and always will be Canadian.

As you are well aware Stirling Dairy does not process their own milk as many other dairies in this area. The reason being that small dairies cannot afford the quality control and equipment that is required today. We feel we have the best local and most modern dairy in this region, processing your milk and dairy products to provide superior products.

The reason some merchants of Stirling are selling another Dairy's product is because of a larger rebate to the merchant which you the customer pay in the end. As far as it being "The Fresh One," we feel this is false advertising as a quantity of this milk comes from the same processor as ours.

We are Canadians and so not like to do business this way.

Yours truly,
STIRLING DAIRY,
Owners Marvin and Norman Cooney.

The footbone's connected to the headbone.

Think about it.
When you play tennis, you wear tennis shoes. When you walk, you wear good walking shoes. And when you work you wear proper footwear for comfort and protection.

Take a good look at your shoes. Make sure they're not getting run down at the heel. Change fraying laces. And check the soles to see that they're in good condition.
Sure footwork begins with proper footwear.

The sure way to safety is Self-Defence.

Movie fare poor

The fact that Stirling does not have a movie theatre now means that people interested in attending this form of entertainment must scan the pages of the Intelligencer or Trentonian to find out what is playing, that just might be worth watching.

A perusal of the pages these past few months has really given little choice aside from pictures with a horror story as the main plot, or others featuring violence, sex or criminal exploitation as the principal theme of the attraction.

There are undoubtedly those who attend these, and those films with the "adult" or "restricted" labels automatically attract those who do not qualify but try to get in and see what some censor has decreed they should not view. The merit of censorship is under discussion in Manitoba at the moment, and after seeing the advertisements for some films, it really doesn't seem to matter what is shown, as long as the youngsters don't get in to see it.

Not so many years ago, theatre entertainment usually carried a sufficiently varied menu during, say, a two week period, that most tastes would be satisfied. There were westerns with straightforward plots and lots of action; detective stories that kept one on the edge of his or her seat, much as the similar fare does on television; and most of all musicals, where the main theme was quality, well-performed songs. Usually from these came most of the hit music of the year, or at least several of the top tunes.

There is no doubt movies have deteriorated with the advent and heavy competition from the television attractions. Now even movies are tailor made for television showing. Even a quick glance over the offerings there any night don't really give much choice. The themes are all so similar.

As in everything else, those over thirty or even close to it, are considered "over the hill" by those who produce so called entertainment attractions. Maybe the material of a few years ago would be labelled corn by today's upcoming generations, who are often more enthused by twanging guitars and unintelligible lyrics, coupled with pounding drums and shouting audiences, but at least the productions weren't so bad they had to be mostly restricted. There was the occasional one, but not the majority as appears to be the case today.

Let's hope that in the near future, some way will be found to give us back a little of that type of entertainment more could enjoy.

Keeping it clean

YOUR OIL BILL

Last month, a freighter in the Great Lakes flushed out its tanks.

As far as we can determine, it was a deliberate act of convenience for the ship's captain and owners.

You paid for it -- a $10,000 beach cleanup with nobody to foot the bill but the Ontario taxpayer.

The thick, tarry oil that powers much of our maritime traffic floated on Lake Huron for some time before a storm drove it ashore onto private beaches and Ipperwash Provincial Park.

Fortunately, the spill was limited and didn't hit an area where wildlife would be affected. And it was dealt with efficiently by the Ministry of the Environment's contingency plan -- a framework for reporting and co-ordinating control of oil and chemical spills.

But because there is no way of knowing how long the oil floated unseen before hitting the beach, the culprits in the spill escaped and, as I said before, you paid for it.

Spills can range from a minor nuisance to a major ecological disaster. Ontario, Canada, the U.S. and other nations with coastlines to protect are continually refining their methods of detection and cleanup.

We should eventually be able to pinpoint the blame for almost every significant spill and make the culprit or his company pay the bill. We don't want ships that make messes on our lakes any more than we want dogs that make messes on our carpets.

Contingency planning, on the local, provincial, federal and international levels, is the big gun in dealing with spills. Basically it means that responsible people are prepared to swing into effective action at a moment's notice.

The procedures and the techniques are continually being refined.

And new techniques keep coming along -- some of them so ingenious as to be almost unbelievable.

One of the more bizarre experiments involves bacteria. There are more that 60 types of bacteria that eat oil, breaking it down to harmless compounds. Researchers hope to be able to freeze-dry a stockpile of bacteria, each catalogued according to its diet to be dumped quickly on oil spills where they can multiply like mad.

They won't be able to do the whole job, but if they can help, we'll use them.

Livestock, poultry census results

According to the 1971 Census of Agriculture, livestock and poultry are being raised on fewer farms in Canada, but there are more of them per farm. In general, the number of farms reporting each class of livestock and poultry has declined faster then has the total number of farms, so that the proportion of farms reporting each class of livestock or poultry has declined from that shown in the 1966 Census. For Canada as a whole the only exceptions to this trend are geese and ducks. There were fewer farms reporting geese in 1971 than in 1966 although the proportion of farms with geese increased. There was an increase in the number of farms reporting ducks.

The numbers of livestock and poultry on census-farms at June 1st, 1971 was higher than on census-farms at June 1, 1966 except for sheep which continued to decline.

Total cattle in Canada increased by 3.0% from 12.9 million in 1966 to 13.3 million in 1971. At the same time a decline in cows and heifers, 2 years and over, milking or to be milked declined by 15.7% from 2.7 million in 1966 to 2.3 million in 1971. This reduction in the Canadian milking herd was more than offset by an increase of 17.6% in the number of cows and heifers, 2 years and over, being raised for other purposes, presumably beef. The number of such cows and heifers increased from 3.0 million in 1966 to 3.5 million in 1971. This shift in emphasis from dairy to beef was reported in every province.

The number of cattle reported on feed as of January 1 increased from 1.8 million in 1966 to 2.1 million in 1971, a rise of 16.6%. Increases in every province from Ontario westward more than offset reductions reported in provinces from Quebec eastward. British Columbia was the only province where the number of cattle on feed per farm reporting had a slight decline and this was also the only province where there was an increase in the number of farms involved. Elsewhere the pattern on a province by province basis was one of fewer and larger feeding operations.

The number of cows milked on May 31st declined in every province from 1966 to 1971, with a reduction in number of cows milked for Canada as a whole of 18.4% from 2.1 million in 1966 to 1.7 million in 1971. At the same time the milk production per cow increased in every province with the Canadian average for that day going up from 32.2 pounds in 1966 to 34.3 pounds per cow in 1971.

The number of pigs on farms at June 1 rose from 5.4 million in 1966 to 8.1 million in 1971, an increase of 49.9%. The number of farms reporting pigs declined from 154 thousand in 1966 to 122 thousand in 1971, a reduction of 20.6%. Thus the average number of pigs per farm reporting pigs has increased from 35 in 1966 to 66 in 1971. An increase in pig numbers was reported in every province. However, the number of farms reporting pigs increased only in Newfoundland and British Columbia. The proportion of farms with pigs declined in Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, Quebec and Ontario but increased elsewhere.

The number of sheep reported on farms continued to decline between 1966 and 1971 but at a slower rate than in the previous five years. In 1971 there were 861 thousand sheep reported, compared with 1.0 million in 1966, a decline of 15.6%. In every province fewer farms reported sheep in 1971 than in 1966 and the proportion of farms reporting sheep declined everywhere except in British Columbia which was also the only province showing a reduction in the average number of sheep per farm reporting them. On a national basis, the average flock size increased from 47 to 61 sheep between 1966 and 1971.

The number of horses on farms in Canada continued to decline between 1966 and 1971 but at a slower rate than in the previous five years. In Ontario and British Columbia the number of horses increased. All provinces showed an increase in the number o horses per farm reporting and there was a continued increase in the total number of horses reported on farms in British Columbia. The total number of horses reported on farms in 1971 was 354 thousand compared with 387 thousand in 1966, a reduction of 8.5% compared with a decline of 24.4% between 1961 and 1966.

The number of goats reported in 1971 declined from 18 thousand on 4529 farms, from the 1961 figures of 23 thousand on 7765 farms. Farmers were not asked to report goat numbers in 1966.

The number of hens and chickens reported on farms in Canada rose from 75.6 million in 1966 to 87.5 million in 1971, an increase of 15.7%. This was an acceleration from the 8.7% increase in the previous five years. Increased numbers of hens and chickens were reported in all provinces except Saskatchewan and Alberta. The number of farms reporting hens and chickens dropped from 177 thousand in 1966 to 120 thousand in 1971, a reduction of 32.4%. The trend to fewer and larger flocks which was evident from 1961 to 1966 thus continued at a faster rate. Average flock size for Canada in 1971 was 732 birds compared with 428 in 1966 and 262 in 1961.

The number of turkeys on farms in Canada increased from 9 million in 1966 to 9.5 million in 1971. In the same period the number of farms reporting turkeys declined from 21,309 to 13,414. Increased numbers of turkeys on farms in Nova Scotia Quebec and British Columbia more than offset declines in other provinces.

"Build your basement recreation room, paint your house, and even repair your TV set (if you can) but don't try to 'do-it-yourself' if you need treatment for arthritis" says the Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society. The best place to go for advice is to your family doctor.

Accidents from work with wrenches show two main causes - unsafe surroundings and unthinking, St. John Ambulance reports. In practically every case, you can either get rid of the hazards around the job or set the job up in a way to avoid them. It just takes a little planning.

CORRECTION

In reference to the advertisement in the Stirling News-Argus last week on the Who's Who in Belleville page, the phrase in the second paragraph, "This firm is the only LOCALLY owned and CANADIAN owned dairy throughout this region," should have read, "This firm is the only LOCALLY and CANADIAN owned dairy processing milk throughout this region." No other interpretation was intended. If there were any hard feelings created, they were not intended either.

MR. AND MRS. DAVID COOKE

Cooke - Thirza

St. Paul's United Church, Stirling, was the scene of a double ring ceremony recently when Alison Thirza, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Howard Reed of Winnipeg, Manitoba, exchanged marriage vows with David Daniel, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. C. Dan Cooke of Stirling.

Rev. John A. May officiated. The soloist, Mrs. William Grant was accompanied at the organ by her daughter, Miss Heather Grant.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor length gown of chiffon over embroidered batiste, with an empire waistline and full bell sleeves. The wedding band collar was trimmed with satin piping and a long satin bow extended the length of the chapel train. Her elbow length veil was held in place by a lace band. She carried a cascade bouquet of white and yellow daisies.

The maid of honor, Miss Miriam Adams, friend of the bride, and the bridesmaids, Miss Rhonda Badgley and Miss Brenda Baker, cousins of the groom, wore identical floor length gowns of pale yellow flowered print accented with yellow satin bows. They wore yellow picture hats and carried baskets of yellow daisies with baby's breath.

Alan Cooke, brother of the groom, attended as best man and the ushers were Colin Reed, brother of the bride, and Ivan Cooke, brother of the groom.

For the reception held in the Church parlours the bride's mother received guests wearing a blue floral chiffon dress with blue accessories and a corsage of pink roses. The mother of the groom wore a green and yellow floral chiffon dress with white accessories and a corsage of yellow roses.

Out of town guests were present from London, Honey Harbour, Kingston, Toronto, Ottawa, Burwash, Burlington, Resolute Bay, N.W.T., Michigan and Winnipeg. A special guest was Miss Grace Reed, aunt of the bride, from London, England.

Following the reception Mr. and Mrs. Cooke left for a wedding trip to Winnipeg. On their return they will reside at 215 Victoria Ave., Belleville.

Prior to her marriage Mrs. David Cooke (nee Alison Reed) was honored at a miscellaneous shower held in the home of Mrs. S. Magian, Winnipeg. Another miscellaneous shower in Belleville was given by Miss Miriam Adams with Miss Rhonda Badgley and Miss Brenda Baker as co-hostesses. A cup and saucer and crystal shower was given by Mrs. Francis Thompson, R.R. 2, Roslin, with Mrs. R. Baker assisting.

Authority to get grant

Leo Bernier, Minister of Natural Resources and Clarke T. Rollins, M.L.A. for Hastings, annouced the approval of a provincial grant of $500,00 to the Moira River Conservation Authority for Channel improvement work on the Moira River.

Loose rock in the Moira River at a location between Latta and Plainfield constricts the river channel resulting in an upstream accumulation of floe-ice during the spring freshet, thereby creating a flood hazard. It is proposed to remove this constriction.

All member municipalities have been designated as benefiting and will be levied the Authority's share of the cost.

WEEKLY REPORT FROM FOXBORO DISTRICT

CO-OP (BY JACK WOOD)

The latest research indicates that splitting of alfalfa roots from winter's freezing cold can be reduced by applying adequate amounts of K2O in August.

Under long time standards of practice, farmers have been advised to fertilize forage stands with K2O in September. But now some agronomists question whether this allows the plant enough time to produce adequate reserves. Particularly when high yielding varieties of alfalfa remove so much potassium from the soil.

At two tons per acre, each ton has about 30 lbs. K. But yields of six ton per acre contains about 50 tons K. Potassium is concentrated in the fast growing parts of the plant, so early cutting, as is prescribed for maximum protein yield, helps remove extra K from the soil.

Tests by Farmers Forage Research Co-op in 1968 of K removal showed a removal of 152% of the K applied at a 345 lbs. K/acre in the year. While some soils high in K can take these losses for a short while, other soils can't, and so high yields from good management practices require sufficient fertilizer.

We believe you should apply K to your forage stands in August. It doesn't leach out of soil, so is available to the plant for a longer build-up period, to give improved ability to over-winter without root damage. Order your August K requirements the next time you call us. Don't forget that you need to balance it with phosphorous to give the forage roots vigorous development, so they can store the maximum amount of K.

Letters to the editor

The Editor,
Stirling News-Argus.

Dear Sir:

The author of these lines is unknown to me, however I hoped that it might raise a chuckle from some of my fellow sufferers, who milk cows. It was sent to me by a friend who lives in B.C.

Sincerely,
W.E. Wilson,
R.R. 4, Marmora.

I long for a cow of modern make
That milks five days for leisures sake,
That sleeps on Saturday, snores on Sunday,
And starts afresh again on Monday.

I wish for a herd that knows the way,
To wash each other day by day,
That never bother to excite us,
With chills, or fevers, or mastitis.

I sigh for a new and better breed
That takes less grooming and less feed,
That has the reason, wit and wisdom,
To use the seat and flushing system.

I pray each weekend long and clear,
Less work to do from year to year,
And cows that reach production's peak,
All in a five day working week.
I look for officials by the mob,
To guide the farmers at their job,
And show those dim-wit breeders how
To propagate a five day cow.

Dear Sir:

May we make an appeal to your readers for some missing documents?

The Historical Branch of the City of Edmonton Parks and Recreation Department has been researching information about the Hudson's Bay Company Fort Edmonton as it was during the 1840's, in preparation for an authentic reconstruction of the post. Much of our knowledge of this fort in the 19th century is derived from Fort Edmonton Journals of Daily Occurrences which are now in the Hudson's Bay Company Archives. Unfortunately, all of the Journals between the years 1834 and 1854 are missing, but it is possible that they still exist somewhere, perhaps in a private collection.

If any readers have information concerning the whereabouts of these missing journals, we would sincerely appreciate hearing from them at:
The Historical Exhibits Building,
10105 - 112 Avenue,
EDMONTON, Alberta, T5G OH1.

Yours truly,
Doug Babcock,
Research Consultant,
Historical Development and Archives Branch.

Lack of job skill takes many forms, all of which could lead to accidents, St. John Ambulance observes. It may cause a worker to try other unsafe methods.

*****

Don't confuse knowledge and skill, St. John Ambulance cautions. Basically, the difference is between knowing what to do and being able to do it correctly.

A splurge of birthdays

A splurge of birthdays was again the highlight at Senior Citizens on Thursday. Mina Smith was surprised when Luella Bronson and Helen Fitchett presented her with a nice big cake. There were three other anniversaries announced, Nellie Montgomery, Flossie Geen and Buttimer Belshaw who is about half way between 90 and 100 and still going strong. The birthday song was sung for all.

The prize winners were Ann Faulkner, Ada Bush, Lil Heasman and Murn Stapley. Many compliments were paid to Kate Donohoe and Ada Bush for the tasty lunch they provided consisting of assorted muffins and jellies. There was also oodles of good old cheese.

Waiting between games can be eliminated if all got started on time. In the future if you wish to play progressive you must be present not later that 2 o'clock.

Vice Pres. John Kane kept good order in the absence of our President and there were no casualties.

WELLS GARAGE TO BE FIRE HALL

READYING SCHOOL LOCKERS

With less than two weeks until school opens, the custodial staffs of the two Stirling Public Schools are busy completing their summer cleaning operations. Custodians Brayson Lott, (left) and Wilf Waters are shown cleaning lockers at the Senior Public School.

Stirling Council Monday night took the initial action to acquire new premises for a badly-needed fire hall for the community.

Reeve Robert Anderson told the News-Argus Tuesday that council has made an offer to purchase the original premises of Wells Ford-Mercury Sales Ltd. located on the north side of Front Street. This offer has been accepted, but as there are several legal aspects to be completed, no details of the offer can now be revealed.

Stirling has been contemplating replacing the existing fire hall facilities on Mill Street for some time. Further emphasis was placed on this move in the recent survey of fire fighting facilities by the Ontario Fire Marshal. One of the leading recommendations was for a new hall.

Council has been considering whether it would be wiser to buy some existing property, or try and build what was needed, Reeve Anderson said that the present acquisition will be a considerable saving to the taxpayers over building new premises.

Wells Ford Sales, under the proprietorship of Harold J. Wells and in recent years joined by his son Allan, has been in business in Stirling for about 40 years. About five years ago they built new showroom facilities across the highway from the garage where service work is done. For some time they have been planning to build additional facilities to put the service department at the showroom.

Stirling teachers attend convention

Gloria Steinem, internationally famous women's rights leader, journalist and television personality, addressed the Annual Dinner of the Federation of Women Teachers' Associations of Ontario on Thursday, Aug. 17, at the Royal York Hotel, Toronto.

About 800 delegates and visitors, elementary school women teachers from all over Ontario, attended the Annual Meeting of the 34,000-member Federation from Tuesday evening, Aug. 15 through Friday, Aug. 18.

Attending from this area were Miss Frances Prest and Mrs. Gladys M. Sine of Stirling Public School.

Provincial President Isabel Ward of Pembroke, who is principal of an elementary school at the Canadian Forces Base, Petawawa, presided over the general sessions. Chairing the business sessions was Margaret Hyndman, Q.C., Toronto lawyer.

Miss Ward in her presidential address warned delegates that declining school population and spending ceilings on education imposed by the Ministry of Education are causing serious problems for elementary schools. She predicted that the quality of education would suffer is school boards employ teaching assistants or aides and then increase the size of classes.

Dorothy Martin, Executive Secretary of the Federation, pointed out in her report that classroom teachers are the first to suffer in an economy drive such as has been going on in the last two years in Ontario. More is being expected of teachers at a time when there is little job security. Administrators are searching the ranks to find dispensable teachers, she said.

Scholarships worth a total of $28,000 were presented to eight women teachers for a variety of purposes ranging from completion of a Bachelor of Arts degree through to doctoral work in education; from the teaching of the deaf to study of the 'underachieving' child. One thousand dollars was awarded to a Kingston elementary school for an innovative project in home economics and industrial arts in the junior division.

Honorary Memberships in the Federation, awarded for service to education, the teaching profession and the Federation, were given to two former provincial presidents of FWTAO, Mrs. Annabelle Harten of Sault Ste. Marie and Miss Alice Ogden of St. Catharines and to five other retired members of the Federation, Mrs. Catharine Anderson of East York, Mrs. Jennie Crothers of Cornwall, Mrs. Violet Davies of Stratford, Miss Edith Fulcher of North Bay and Mrs. Mildred Smitheram of Dundas.

Tanner reunion

The Tanner reunion was held at Zwick's Island Park, Belleville, on Sunday, Aug. 13. A fair number were in attendance. The weather was beautiful. After a time of getting re-acquainted, the president, John Courtney, extended greetings to everyone. A special welcome was given to Mr. and Mrs. George Wilson, Saskatoon, and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wickens, Nipawin, Sask. They had travelled the longest distance to attend the reunion.

A moment's silence was observed in honor of the recently departed -- Molly Chiddle, Bill West, Basil Howe, Lillie Henley and Russell Marisette.

Miss Joyce Parks read the minutes of the 1971 meeting and Mrs. Lindsay Tanner reported for the treasurer Myrtle Tanner. She was unable to be present.

Morley Tanner was elected President. Re-elected were Myrtle Tanner as treasurer and Betty Parks as secretary. The picnic will be held at Campbellford Ferris Memorial Park, on the second Sunday in August, 1973.

The Tanner Family History Book was available and everyone was pleased with the results. Mrs. Lindsay Tanner thanked Sara Morgan and Bess West for information they made available for the book; thanks also went to Annie Courtney for typing it and to Dora Elvidge and Betty Parks for their help. The original book from which much of the information was gleaned is now at St. Thomas' Anglican Church, Harold. Anyone wishing further information re deaths, births, etc. may see it there.

Farmers harvest hay for wet areas

Quinte area farmers are responding to emergency requests from water-logged eastern Ontario areas for hay feed.

To date, about 100,000 bales of hay have been listed for sale in Hastings County, said provincial agricultural representative Douglas Tipper of Stirling last week.

The response is to the plight of farmers in the province's eight eastern counties. Hard hit by wet weather, they organized an information centre and enlisted help of agricultural representatives to gather information on hay feed available in counties less affected by unseasonal summer rains.

Names, addresses and phone numbers of farmers with hay for sale -- and the amount of available hay -- are sent daily from Mr. Tipper's office here to the inormation exchange at Winchester.

"The response has been good. We've listed more than 100,000 bales of hay -- which is a fair amount," said Mr. Tipper.

There has been some crop losses in the county. But second-growth hay is now available -- if the weather holds off to permit its collection.

Some farmers in the eastern counties are selling off cattle to reduce herds in the face of feed shortages.

Mr. Tipper said there have been reports that some cattle from the hard-hit areas are being rented out to Quinte area farmers who may have milk quotas they cannot fill.

What may be happening is that some eastern Ontario farmers would probably sell off younger cattle and retain top animals as a core group to renew their herds later.

News-Argus Notebook

KIDNAPPED LOBSTER -- Somewhere, there is an individual with an irresistible affinity for sea food, artificial or otherwise. Over the weekend, a souvenir stuffed lobster in a genuine trap disappeared from the front lawn of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Morrow, R.R. 4, Stirling. The trap was discovered later in the back of a truck owned by Jack Sager who lives nearby. To date, the kidnapped lobster has not reappeared.

GYMKHANA AWARDS -- Winners of the Eastern Ontario Gymkhana Championships, held on the last day of Quinte Exhibition were Garry Dawson of Prescott, and D.D. Leggette of Roseneath, the runner-up. The champion won a trophy donated by Bishop Seeds of Belleville and the runner-up received a blanket donated by Ted's Tack Shop in Stirling.

KICKING THE HABIT -- Sunday night's CBC television show, giving a vivid display of the effects of cigarette smoking, caught the attention of some local viewers. One young woman we heard of came bouncing in to the office Monday morning, with the announcement that she was off the weed, as of 10 p.m. Sunday! For some 20 hours her lungs took in nothing but pure, rural Hastings County air. Then, she caved in and another good resolution went down the drain.

CLUB MOVING -- After nearly 20 years in the Sterling Hotel, the local Rotary Club will be moving its weekly dinner meetings to John's Restaurant. Mr. and Mrs. William Long, owners of the hotel, have been serving dinner each Tuesday evening for nearly 20 years. The Rotary Club will be moving to the Mill St. Restaurant in September.

Cabinet upholds ban

The Cabinet has rejected a request to delay implementation of Ontario's regulation banning disposable three-quart polyethylene milk jugs, Environment Minister James Auld announced recently.

The decision came August 8 after Dominion Dairies Ltd., the major dairy now using the one-way jugs, presented a proposal to the Cabinet. It involved Dominion's stated intention to reclaim their non-returnable containers with a five-cent deposit and sell them to a plastics firm at the going rate -- two or three cents a pound -- as bulk plastic to be recycled into other products.

It also involved a proposed industry-government program to encourage the recovery and disposal of other plastic containers by volunteer groups.

"Cabinet has decided the regulation and its timing should remain unchanged," said Mr. Auld.

He said the dairy's submission has been forwarded to Task Force on Solid Waste Disposal which is soon to be assembled. "There is not enough detail in the submission to decide on its feasibility. It needs further study."

Export performance is discussed

Exports from Canada and Ontario are shown on a commodity by commodity, and on a country by country basis in two publications issued by the Ministry of Industry and Tourism. Ontario Exports By Countries 1970 and Ontario Exports by Commodities show Ontario's export performances for two years along with percentages of changes.

Commenting on this export identification program, which points out specific markets for specific Ontario products in foreign markets, Industry and Tourism Minister John White said: "We cannot afford exclusivism in our export performance, neither by products nor by geographical areas. We must diversify our exports by countries as well as by commodities, thereby raising the level of production and productivity, and facilitate the absorption of the growing labour supply in Ontario."

Letter to the editor

1030 Nanton Avenue,
Vancouver 9,
British Columbia.
20th August, 1972.

Editor: Dear Sir:

According to Department of External Affairs figures, the Liberal Government spent over one million, eleven thousand and fifty seven dollars on parties, entertainment and "hospitality" during the fiscal year ending March 31st, 1972.

These included parties in 105 overseas embassies at a cost of $706,504. $24,579 was spent on parties for diplomats visiting Canada - which included the arrogant "all-French" concert and banquet on Dominion Day, July 1st. Wine, liquor and champagne at this little "do" cost taxpayers $2,300. Another $327,574 was spent on "hospitality" for visiting heads of state, international conferences, cultural visitors and members of the foreign press.

In view of our continuing Marie Antoinette attitude, one might be tempted to suggest another Opportunities for Youth Grant - this time to collect scraps from Government banquet tables for distribution to our Old Age Pensioners. Or isn't that a far-out enough project?

Yours sincerely,
Patricia Young.

Age lowered for student aid

The age requirement for Group B (independent) status under the Ontario Student Awards Program has been lowered by one year, the Hon. George A. Kerr, Minister of Colleges and Universities announced today. This reduction to 24 years in the Group B age qualification for loan - grant assistance will take effect beginning with the fall semester, Mr. Kerr indicated, and should assist graduate students in particular, as well as students enrolled in long-term progessional programs.

Previously students had to be 25 years of age or married in order to have their resources assessed independently of parental income. As many as 2,000 Ontario students may be affected by the change, which will be covered by funds already allocated to the Ontario Student Awards Program.

The Minister also confirmed that the miscellaneous allowance provided under OSAP has been increased from $8.00 a week to $9.00 a week. This will amount to an additional $30 for a 30-week academic year and will affect mainly students living away from home.

Last year a total of 64,500 of Ontario's post - secondary students received OSAP assistance, including 45,000 who qualified for a combination of loan and provincial grant and 19,500 who qualified for Canada Student Loan only. This year the first $800 of any award will be Canada Student Loan. The total award including grant portion will take into account the increase in tuition fees in order to assist students with limited resources.

The Student Awards Officers of Ontario's post-secondary institutions have been asked to submit to the Ministry of Colleges and Universities for review applications from students who would be affected by the age reduction and have already received a Statement of Award, the Minister said. At present, regular OSAP applications forwarded by the colleges and universities are being processed and returned to the institutions in about three weeks. Reviews, special consideration cases, and applications incorrectly completed take about two weeks longer. To date over 30,000 regular applications have already been processed by the Student Awards Branch of the Ministry of Colleges and Universities. The final deadline for fall applications is September 30.

Mr. and Mrs. George Wilson (Jean Burnett) of Saskatoon, and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wickens of Nipawin, Sask. are visiting relatives in this community and attended the Tanner picnic at Zwick's Island on Sunday.

What is legal?

If anyone had any doubt about the decline of our moral values in this fast-moving society, it was clearly made legally evident with the recent ruling in Alberta about the "work on Sunday case," which was up for decision. The essence of the supreme court ruling was that working is not wrong and there should be no legal ruling or statute to prevent it.

What jarred people more than anything, perhaps, was the statement by the judge that "what was wrong in 1906 is not necessarily wrong today." This may be his opinion, but while some crimes may be better defined today and there may be more shades of a particular wrongdoing in the eyes of the law, wrong is still wrong.

Work on Sunday has been under fire recently in Ontario, where several of the supermarkets were charged with illegal operation. The usual result was a fine, which compared with the revenue realized, is hardly anything for the shareholders to fret about. Work is also a matter of opinion, so the battle will likely go on for many years yet.

The real issue, more than what is right or wrong, is really who should be allowed to make a dollar and who shouldn't. Ever since the Lord's Day Act has been in force, certain businesses have been labelled "essential" and allowed to stay open unhindered. Until the recent growth of winter activities in the resort areas, businesses there ran wide open seven days a week from about May until Labor Day, using the theory, "if we don't make it then, we won't make it at all."

This system has gradually been expanded and now most of these businesses run twelve months a year on the same basis. The small operator was doing it unhampered, and this may be what prompted the larger store to try it as well. As far as stores are concerned, there are so many overlaps in today's business world, it is hard to define which premises really sell what, so it is difficult to label most outlets.

There has and always will be certain work, as being different from business, that must be done seven days a week. Police, fire and similar services; shift work in manufacturing plants that would find it prohibitive financially to close for one day, such as smelting operations; availability of essential services to the traveller; and medicinal requirements. This has always seemed to be the general rule until recent years, when the field suddenly broadened greatly.

With the shortened work week for firms with union contracts, more and more people are travelling on weekends and demand certain services. Whether some of these demands could be filled before leaving home might be questionable. Certainly there is a variety of businesses open on Sunday that could well be debated whether they were of an essential nature or not.

The unfortunate part of this situation is that when the Act in question was first passed, the religious leaders of the country had a considerable influence on not only congregations, but legislation as well. The same cannot be said today. While certain issues may receive attention from some churches there is hardly any influence at all from this sector on the law of the land. Church assemblies view with alarm and present their briefs, but it is rare indeed to hear where these have had any effect on policy. It would probably be a fair statement that most business leaders in a community, albeit considered pillars of their respective churches, would likely be the first to complain if such restrictive legislation were passed or even contemplated.

If there is to be any stemming of this flow toward a more open Sunday, it will have to start with the church stand, if taken, being totally supported by the congregations first.

Mrs. John Carlisle presided and opened the meeting with the Ode and Lord's Prayer. The roll call was answered by each naming her birthday flower.

Plans were discussed for catering to an auction sale. Collection was gathered by Gloria Russett. Happy birthday was sung for Mrs. W. Cox.

Mrs. Gerald Clancy reported the current events which had been prepared by Miss Valerie Clancy. Mrs. Fred Beckett gave the motto, "What good is the view if you don't understand its beauty."

Mrs. Jim Pollock, convenor of this meeting, opened the program by reading a poem entitled, "Gifts of August." Mrs. Kenneth Tompkins rendered a solo. Mrs. Pollock introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. Raymond McConnell, who demonstrated some of her work with flowers. She displayed a variety of corsages, and some novelties made from shoes, cans, spools, jar rings and egg cartons. She made a dahlia arrangement and assisted some ladies in making corsages. A corsage was presented to Mrs. John Rainie, the oldest lady present. Several draws were made on the floral arrangements.

Mrs. W. Cox expressed thanks to Mrs. McConnell and presented her with a gift. Mrs. Pollock read a poem, "He who plants a Rose."

The meeting closed with the Mary Stewart Collect and God Save the Queen.

AT WHAT COST

In the past six years, an estimated 800 people in Japan have been affected by Yokkaichi asthma, a serious bronchial ailment resulting from emissions from industries in a petro-chemical complex in central Japan.

In an unprecedented district court decision, six major Japanese firms have been ordered to pay nearly $300,000 in damages to victims of this ailment and the families of several Yokkaichi residents who dies.

The case took nearly five years to decide and the ruling prompted the national environmental agency to pledge greater effort to prevent pollution before it starts.

In another Japanese court case, a leading chemical company was ordered to pay $10,000 to 77 people suffering as a result of mercury discharges to a river.

In Tokyo, officials are seriously considering banning automobiles during peak pollution periods. The City governor, Ryokichi Minobe asked to ban private autos during the 7 a.m. to 9 a.m. commuter traffic peak, forcing drivers to use public transit. But police rejected the scheme because it was impossible to man barricades on the thousands of approach roads to the city.

Since autos cause an estimated 99.7% of Tokyo's carbon monoxide and 97.9% of Hydrocarbon emissions, city officials are still looking for solutions.

The latest estimates indicate that Japanese government spending on pollution control will double to $552 million in the next fiscal year and industrial spending on pollution abatement will rise to $7.2 billion.

Japan is paying a heavy price for its rush to become a major industrial power. But the Japanese are putting their experience to good use developing a major pollution control program.

In a way, we're lucky.

We're living in a big province in a big country, with a tremendous amount of water supply and air space, while Japan is a small heavily populated nation.

We could see the danger of environmental abuse before it was upon us.

Canoeing Demonstration

Leo Bernier, Ontario Minister of Natural Resources, recently visited the Ontario Safety League's Canoe /Camping Demonstration Unit in Algonquin Park's Lake of Two Rivers campground.

He took part in a demonstration with Janice Dawson, teacher from Parry Sound, showing how to rescue another canoeist who has capsized.

"Properly handled, the canoe is a very safe draft," says Omar Stringer, canoeing expert with the OSL unit. "But there are many unnecessary mishaps - some ending in tragedy - to people who do not know some of the most elementary things about using a canoe. Our demonstrations, and practical lessons, are helping hundreds of people every week to paddle with more confidence, more safety, more enjoyment."

The program is sponsored jointly by the Canadian National Sportsmen's Show and the Ministry of Natural Resources, and helped by a number of suppliers who have lent necessary equipment.

After a month in Algonquin Park, the Unit will be in Killarney Provincial Park. On August 15 and 16 the Unit will be demonstrating and teaching at the CNIB Lake Joseph Recreation Centre.

'Today's Children' really DO get adopted

Do these children really get adopted?

That's the question often asked about Today's Child and the boys and girls who are featured there.

The answer is yes, they really do.

Adopting a child (or children) is a private affair, just as producing your own child is, so it is not possible to give specific details about individual adoptions. But a half-yearly report will help to answer that opening question.

One hundred and thirty one children who have appeared in Today's Child so far this year are now living with their adopting parents.

Many more will be moving into their new homes as summer goes on, because school vacation is a convenient time for children to be transplanted and for prospective parents to travel to meet their new child (or perhaps children).

Today's Child originates with the Ministry of Community and Social Services, as part of the Ontario government's program for the welfare of children in this province.

Every adoption is special because every one means that a child who has been waiting for parents has to wait no longer. The child has found a place of his or her own and a mother and father with home and hearts open.

But two of this year's adoptions are unusual enough to deserve extra special mention.

The first concerns one child only. The other is a family group.

The one child is Mark, four years old, a handsome bright boy who was born without legs and with only stumps or arms ending above the elbow. Mark appeared three times in Today's Child. Twice in previous years, possible parents were interested in adopting him but it didn't work out.

The third time led to a permanent home for this boy. Mark is now settled with a mother and father, two big brothers and a sister. He will grow up as part of a family.

Dear little Mark, while finding a mother and father for himself, has helped other children with handicaps as well.

Forty families expressed a desire to adopt him. Of course only one could.

Some of the 40 did not follow through on plans for adoption. Others have adopted children with different kinds of problems -- problems not quite so grave as Mark's, but serious enough to affect these children's lives.

The special family group is seven -- four sisters and their three brothers. The children are Canadian Indians, ranging in age from two to nine.

They were adopted by a couple who already had five children, three of them adopted. The parents and their natural children are white. The three children adopted are Indian.

These people had already applied to their Children's Aid Society for the adoption of one more child, preferably of Indian background, when they saw the family of seven. They quickly changed their ideas. It seems they had always wanted to have children!

This is the second family of seven to be adopted through Today's Child. The first, also four girls and three boys, was adopted in Canada's Centennial Year, 1967.

The only other seven ever to appear here will be remembered because they attracted admirers and would-be parents from all across Canada. They are seven young sisters, hoping to be adopted as a family so they can grow up together.

That all-girl family has not been adopted yet, but undoubtedly will be. It takes longer when there are so many possibilities to be considered.

The next largest family was five -- four sisters and their brother. They were adopted by two different families as a trio and a pair. The families are neighbors and close friends so the children will grow up together even though they have different parents and different names.

Enumeration will discover new voters

Revenue Minister Allan Grossman said today that the Enumeration of Ontario residents, which begins September 5, will identify a new kind of local voter in the province.

The enumeration involves the gathering of basic information for municipal voters' lists, 80% of Ontario municipalities will hold elections on Monday, Dec. 4.

Mr. Grossman said that throughout Ontario's history, property qualifications, with some exceptions, have established eligibility for local electors.

"This year, for the first time, we have expanded the right to vote in municipal and school board elections to the growing number of people who are neither property owners nor long term tenants.

"A Canadian citizen or British subject who is 18 years of age or older and a resident of the municipality between Sept. 5 and Oct. 10 can vote in local elections," the Minister explained.

Mr. Grossman said this year's enumeration is also important as it embraces several other fundamental changes in legislation.

"For example, an individual will now have only one vote per municipality, regardless of how many properties he or she may own or rent.

"However, if an individual is resident in one municipality and also a property owner in another municipality he or she can vote, but only once, in each municipality, so can that person's spouse."

Mr. Grossman continued: "This means that a cottage owner, for example, can vote in the municipality where he is uaually resident as well as the municipality in which his cottage is located.

"As cottage owners are not normally permanent residents of the municipalities where they own cottages, enumeration notices will be mailed to them at their permanent residences. They should make any necessary corrections on the notice and mail it to the address indicated."

The enumeration is being made by the Ministry of Revenue's Assessment Division on behalf of the municipalities. Enumerations have traditionally been made in the spring.

DOLLARS & GOOD SENSE
by WILLIAM J. MARTIN
Special Consultant to Acco Financial Services

Don't be too shocked if you walk into your supermarket this winter and see the cashier totaling purchases without a cash register. It's coming, a new system which totals purchases according to signals from a clerk's voice.
The voice activated checkout system has been developed by Threshold Technology, and besides speeding up your check-out time, it could help lower your food costs by decreasing some labor costs.
The cashier can bag groceries at the same time that prices are entered onto the receipt tape. You can thus watch over your purchases better, since you will both hear the price called out and see it displayed.
Each unit will be programmed to the individual cashier who will be using it, adjusted for language, vocabulary, dialect, accent, etc. Corrections can be made with a voice command, and the new machines will also respond to such words as repeat, total, tax, check, etc.
A small microphone picks up the voice commands which are then transformed into the functions performed by the current cash registers.
It's another new development which will make our shopping easier and possibly even cheaper. Look for it beginning this winter.

WEEKLY REPORT FROM FOXBORO DISTRICT

CO-OP

(BY JACK WOOD)

Are higher producers more efficient than lower producers in converting feed into milk? Some of the information to answer this question is being gathered in an experiment being conducted at the University of California at Davis. Cows producing 10,000 to 30,000 pounds of milk per year are being fed free choice on a complete mixed ration containing 40% alfalfa hay and 60% concentrate. All cows are fed this same high-energy feed throughout the lactation.

Average milk production (308 days) for the high, medium, and low groups of cows was 24,241; 15,310; and 10,054 pounds respectively. High - producing cows averaged more dry matter intake than medium and low-producing cows. Even though they consumed more feed, the high producers yielded 1.88 pounds of milk per pound of feed compared to 1.49 and 1.16 pounds for the medium and low-producing groups respectively.

What do these results mean? Dairymen are taking the right approach when they breed, feed and manage cows for maximum milk production since higher producers are more efficient than lower producers.

STIRLING FAIR THIS WEEKEND

Stirling Fall Fair, a highlight in the year's activities for residents of the village and the surrounding townships, will take place this week.

The fair, sponsored annually by the Stirling Agricultural Society, will have attractions for young, and old, as well as urban and rural dwellers.

All familiar events are again on the agenda and a good afternoon's entertainment has also been planned for Saturday.

The Hastings County Holstein-Friesian Association again will be holding its annual Black and White Cattle show at the Stirling Fair this year. The directors of the fair revived this cattle show in 1969.

Two harness races will be featured at this year's fall fair. Starting time for the first race is 1:30 p.m. Horses and drivers entered in this first race include Fame Rider driven by B. Wemp, Magic Tom Lee driven by Pat Herrington, Highlawn Doug driven by B. White, Monaco driven by Ray Rose and Peyton Girl driven by G. White. The expected finishing time of this mile race is 2 min. 17 sec.

The second harness race will be run at 2 p.m. with five horses entered. Ogles Girl will be driven by W. Demille while Calvin Doyle will be driven by Jack Harry. G. White will be driving Northwood Kiwanis and Ken Weeks will be driving Belfax. Sam Mulholand will also be driving a horse. The expected finishing time of this mile race is 2 min. 21 sec.

Light horses will again be featured for many of the classes shown in front of the grandstand. There will also be races for small ponies and a musical chairs competition open to ponies.

There will also be the usual excellent horse and cattle exhibits as well as sheep and swine. In the main building will be found the ladies work exhibits, cheese exhibits, high and public school exhibits and the horticultural exhibits.

The Junior Farmer's Achievement Day will also be held at the fall fair on Saturday.

The farm machinery companies will have their usual displays of farm equipment on the grounds.

Arrangements have been made to have a midway for children at the fair. Refreshment booths and a number of assorted game booths will also be set up on the grounds for Saturday's Fall Fair.

Citizens of Stirling and the surrounding area are expected to be out in force on Saturday lending their support to the Agricultural Society's annual Fall Fair.

Loyalist College has topnotch teaching staff

Back when Loyalist College opened in 1967, a professional engineer in his late fifties decided to embark on a new career as a electronics teacher.

Ray Turner had earned his professional credentials the hard way, by working in industry. But at Loyalist he discovered hidden talents - a gift for teaching and a way with young people that brings out the best in them.

While teaching at the college, Mr. Turner went back to school himself and this year he graduates from Queen's University with a bachelor's degree. And he takes over the position of chairman of general science and mathematics at the college.

Dedication like this is typical of Loyalist teaching masters. So is the broad background in both the working and academic fields.

Loyalist is geared to teaching job skills readily marketed by its students upon graduation. So it demands that its teachers have at least five years' experience in business or industry.

"Professional or vocational experience is our first criterion in hiring a teacher," says Dean of Faculty, Paul King. "After that we consider his formal academic qualifications."

The college will have a staff of 113 for its almost 1500 students this September. Twenty-four of them were hired this summer to cope with new courses and increased enrolment. Among them is an experienced newspaperman for the communication arts staff, an audio visual resource director for the expanded library, a women's physical education instructor and a professional chef-restaurateur.

Senior Citizens club meets

A bumper crowd turned out at Senior Citizens on Thursday. There were 14 tables of progressive euchre in play. High lady was Florence MacMullen and George Heasman was high for the men. Other prize winners were Mary Cooke and Freda Broadworth.

A tasty lunch of assorted cookies and ice cream was served by Ethel Duffin, Martha Wood, Pearl McGee and Tilley Senior. Vice Pres. Jack Kane again was in charge of the meeting and Mary Cook thanked those who served the lunch.

We had two visitors, - Eliza Thompson and Madeline Sullivan of Don Mills.

dis ole Scribe received a card posted in Prince Edward Island from President Fred Heasman last week. If his holiday is as playful as the card, he's having a ball.

Farmers demand forgiveable loans

Flood-struck eastern Ontario farmers want forgiveable loans. They want them so badly, that many flood-hit farmers left their balers during precious long-awaited haying weather in order to attend a Dundas County meeting. Corn, spring grains and livestock farmers were also present.

The spirited gathering of more that 150 gave unanimous support to the Ontario Federation of Agriculture's forgiveable loan proposal.

The federal and provincial governments are being urged by the Federation to split the costs of the loans. Loans would equal 2/3 of each farmer's crop loss, forgiven 20% yearly over five years. The Crop Insurance Commission underwriters would assess damage.

The meeting was called by the Ontario Federation to get feed back on the plan. Farmers from Carleton, Grenville and Dundas attended. This is the first of three meetings presenting the OFA plan to farmers in the eastern seven counties.

"Why is the provincial government dragging it's feet so long in declaring this a disaster area?" scowled an anxious farmer. The question was asked often. The Federation has repeatedly said this must be the first step.

Music success

In the recent Royal Conservatory of Music of Toronto examinations held in Belleville, Master Richard S. Clements successfully passed the preliminary Rudiments with first class honors. Richard is now entitled to his certificate having passed the Grade V Piano Examination with honors.

Richard is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Clements, R.R. 1, Stirling and a pupil of Mrs. Harold Elliott A.T.C.M., R.M.T.

September means return to normality

September means the return to school for thousands of students across the province, and for their parents, it means a return to the regular routine of meetings of numerous organizations. Most groups that meet on a regular basis, be it weekly or monthly, take a holiday in the two summer months as attendance would be badly depleted by vacationers anyway.

In the newspaper business such activities mean a resumption of a flow of news that disappeared in June, and in some instances will not reappear until late in September, depending on the group concerned. While there has been a good amount of material during the summer, this will be greatly augmented as the meetings and other activities resume.

Like all newspapers, the News-Argus depends greatly on the publicity people in these groups. If the person attending to such matters keeps the items coming to the office they will get printed. One thing to keep in mind is that all our copy must be set Monday and Tuesday, on a general basis, and making sure stories and other items are brought to the office by noon Tuesday or as soon after as possible, will ensure its being published that week. Items can be put through mail slot in door, if the office is closed.

Now that the paper has been printed by the offset method for two years, readers are aware that pictures will be used as available and space permits. If there is a special activity the publicity convenor feels might be worth a picture, this could easily be arranged, as long as reasonable advance notice is given. The details can be arranged by telephoning or by coming to the office.

With everyone's co-operation the newspaper can better be of service to reader and advertiser.

Hydro strike still unsettled

Ontario Hydro and representatives of its 12,000 striking employees returned to the bargaining table Monday for the second time this month.

Talks between the parties were suspended last June 20 on the eve of the strike which is now in its third month. They were reopened on August 1 but suspended again August 14.

"Hydro has always been ready to meet at the bargaining table," said H.J. Cox, Manager of Frankford area, "as long as the negotiations are meaningful."

Late last week, CUPE Local 1000 introduced the National CUPE President into the strike and since that time statements from the Local have been issued jointly by CUPE National and the Local.

About 1200 supervisory personnel, drawn from the ranks of some 4500 non-union regular employees, continue to operate the power system. The balance of Hydro's 23,000 employees in addition to the 12,000 on strike, include about 1000 regular and about 5,000 temporary construction employees who are represented by several trade unions.

As negotiations began on Monday, 110 items including wages, remained unsettled.

Farm acreagedrops to low figure

An increase in the number of farms with 760 acres or more in area and a sharp decrease in the number of smaller ones featured the fifth in a series of reports on the 1971 Census of Agriculture issued today by Statistics Canada.

Total land area used by Canadian farmers dropped to 170 million acres from the 174 million reported in 1966, to produce the lowest acreage figure recorded since 1931. Despite this reduction in total acreage the trend to larger farms continues. Of the 366,128 farms covered by the census 17% were 760 acres or more in size, compared with 13% five years earlier and 11% in 1961. Farms with less than 760 acres accounted for 83% of the 1971 total, down from 87% of the farms in 1966 and 90% in 1961.

For the first time Manitoba and Saskatchewan reported decreased acreage in comparison with the previous census, although the decreases were relatively slight. Manitoba's farm lands were some 75,558 acres below the 1966 figure and Saskatchewan's by about 352,488.

Alberta and British Columbia continued to show increased farm acreage, following their historic trends. Newfoundland also reported an increase as the result of unimproved land being brought into agriculture for the development of community pasture land.

The acreage of improved farmland held steady at 108 million acres virtually unchanged from 1966. Improved farmland includes land cultivated and sown to crop for harvest in 1971, farmland cultivated and seeded for pasture use in 1971, summerfallowed land with no crop harvested in 1971 but being cultivated or worked during the year for weed control and/or for moisture conservation, plus other land used for barnyards, home gardens, lanes and roads on the farms. Since there was a smaller number of farms in 1971 than five years earlier, the average acreage of improved land per farm in the six eastern provinces rose from 99 acres in 1966 to 108 acres in 1971. In the four western provinces the improved acreage of the average farm increased from 406 acres in 1966 to 463 acres in 1971.

The area of cropland, one of the components of improved farmland, at 69 million acres, was only slightly less than in 1966. The four western provinces experienced an increase in cropland which was however, more than offset by a decrease in the other provinces.

Improved pasture land increased over past censuses to a peak of 11 million acres in 1966. The 1971 census reports a decline to 10 million acres with increases reported only in Newfoundland, Saskatchewan and Alberta.

Summerfallow acreages have shown small fluctuations since 1941. In 1971 there was an increase to 27 million acres from 26 million in 1966.

Unimproved land on Canadian farms, which has decreased steadily since 1941, fell to 62 million acres were woodland and 50 million acres consisted of unimproved hay land, native pastures, marshes, etc.

Detailed information concerning size, area and use of Canadian farmlands, by provinces and census division, is contained in Census of Agriculture Report No. 96-721. The report is available from the Publications Distribution Unit of Statistics Canada or the Publishing Division of Information Canada, both in Ottawa.

It is natural to want to do a job in the easiest manner possible, St. John Ambulance says. What must be remembered is that the effort saved may not justify the risks.

Tommy Hunter, star of his own show, is seen every Friday night at 9.00 on CBC Television along with The Rhythm Pals, Al Cherny and the vivacious Allan Sisters.

Marine sanitation legislation sought

The Interstate Legislative Committee on Lake Erie has come out strongly in favour of urgin the U.S. federal government to accelerate its timing of proposed marine sanitation legislation, the Ministry of the Environment reported today.

The proposed U.S. federal regulations would allow the continued use of partial treatment systems in existing vessels (primary treatment and effluent disinfection) until 1980 for units installed by 1977. If these units are installed prior to 1975, they can be used indefinitely as long as the equipment continues to function. Complete retention would be required by 1980.

In contrast, New York, Michigan and others of the Great Lake States now have controls similar to Ontario's present regulations for complete waste retention for watercraft. Should some states follow the proposed U. S. federal regulations, this would adversely affect the likelihood of developing compatible controls in respect to equipment standards and timing of implementation.

"There was a very real concern expressed by the representatives at the meeting with regard to the question of timing," Environment Minister James Auld said. "The aim of the recently - signed international agreement was to have programs of this nature in full swing by the end of 1975."

"I can only add my voice to those of the committee members and hope that the Canadian federal ministers involved, Transport Minister Don Jamieson and Environment Canada's Jack Davis, would use all their influence with the American federal authorities to move forward the target date of these programs

by WILLIAM J MARTIN

Special Consultant to Aico Financial Services

The other day I came across an interesting study that uncovered a seldom thought of benefit of home ownership — better family budgeting, a favorite subject of mine.

Families buying a new home for the first time are put into a position of having to manage an increased household budget, and most really set up serious bookkeeping then.

The survey I saw involved 500 first-time home buying families and was conducted by Investors Mortgage Insurance Co. More than 80% of the families (usually wives) responding said that acquiring a new home meant an enlarged household budget for them.

What that means is that a family develops a sharper eye for financial details after becoming a home owner. It watches its spending closer than before, and that is one of the big hidden benefits of buying a home.

Most of the budget keeping duties falls to the wives, the survey notes. Most of the women with increased budgets to handle said that when their husbands added more money to the budget, they also added the responsibility of keeping track of how it was spent.

The comments tend to confirm that the new home owners became good budgeters. How about you? You don't have to wait until you buy your first home to get into the good habit of planning how you're going to spend your money. Any time is the right time to start up a budget.

A FORUM ABOUT MATURE WOMEN

CONSTANTLY QUARRELING

Dear Margaret Brookfield:

Perhaps there are other women like myself -- who are unable to do anything about it. My problem is: there just isn't any love between my husband and myself. If there was companionship, that would help; but my husband, who works hard, has neither the time nor the desire to talk or even watch television with me. (It's always early to bed and early to rise, even on weekends.) We were married late in life and I had my last child when I was 40. Now the children are pretty much grown up. I have a nice home but there's seldom anyone in it. All I do is clean and clean. (During our marriage, I only worked three years. Although I drive and do all my own housework, I have an arthritic condition and am also too frightened to look for a job.) My husband and I quarrel constantly and once separated for an entire year. We visited marriage counselors several times and also have seen our minister over the years, without much help. I've seen an attorney several times, but there was nothing more than talk -- no action. My question is: should I seek a divorce or just go on from day to day grasping at whatever I can?

C.L.

Dear C.L.:

Although you've had a number of opportunities to separate from your husband, you've apparently chosen not to make a complete break. However, at this point, he and his way of life won't change, no matter how much you quarrel. Have you thought instead about making a few changes in your own life? You have more free time now than you ever had before. Although you may not feel up to a full-time job, why not consider becoming a volunteer? After all, you do drive a car. And institutions -- such as your local hospital or children's home usually need extra transportation facilities. They generally welcome people who might provide them. Why not look into this as a possibility for yourself? It could be a way of getting out of the house and making more of a life of your own.

DOES LOVE CONQUER ALL?

(Note: Here's still another reaction to the letter from M.G., who wrote that her husband of 22 years wanted to marry a younger woman with three children, who was still married herself. This reader believes that M.G. has nothing to worry about.)

Dear Margaret Brookfield:

If M.G.'s husband truly loved the woman with three small children -- he would try everything in his power to get this woman -- since love conquers all. I know something about these things. Two years ago, I fell in love with a married man and still love him. But all he ever talked about was his son going into the service and the home he was building on the shore. He never told me he loved me and never asked me to leave my husband. If he had, I'd be with him right now. I think M.G. should hang on, because although men may get involved with other women, they always go home to their wives.

FOUR ADULTS, SIX CHILDREN

Dear Margaret Brookfield:

I've known this fellow for more than 10 years. His wife and I were friends and he grew up with my husband. As life went on, we went our separate ways. He and his wife had four children. My husband and I had two. Recently he began to visit our house. (I was often by myself, since my husband went out a good deal of the time, leaving me alone with the children.) Then one day it happened. We were having a conversation about nothing in particular when the other man kissed me. Now we're in love with each other. I've left my husband. He wants to leave his wife and marry me, but his religion won't allow it. His father says if he does anything like that, he'll kill him. We've tried not to see each other, but this hasn't worked out either. So now we see each other whenever we can. We're planning to leave this city sometime soon. I'd like your opinion though, because I need help badly.

W.J.

Dear W.J.:

Your situation is indeed complicated, involving as it does four adults and six children, not to mention the man's father. The basic issue seems to be: is this temporary infatuation, based on your loneliness and the specific circumstances, or is the relationship one to which you'd like to make a long-range commitment? There are other question too. If you're unable to marry, what legal protection would you and your children have? What would happen if the relationship didn't work out for any reason? What kind of provisions might there be for the support of yourself and your children if this were the case? And what about the difficult adjustment problems you all might face living together in a strange city? In other words, before you think about running off, you'd better have a clearer idea of what you're getting into.

A WELL-MEANING RELATIVE

Dear Margaret Brookfield:

I have three unmarried sisters-in-law who are well over 40, but who refuse to take my advice on how they should handle their menopause. I firmly believe they would profit from my experience if they weren't so stubborn. I've been seeing my doctor for the last couple of years, watching my diet and my weight and taking estrogen regularly. I feel marvelous, but I can't convince them to do the same.

W.M.

Dear W.M.:

Your heart may be in the right place but you're really out of your depth. The only person who can prescribe estrogen replacement therapy is a licensed physician -- not a well-meaning relative. Even if your sisters-in-law had menopausal symptoms and were interested in this form of hormone treatment, they'd still have to see their own doctors. You might, however, suggest a health checkup. That doesn't constitute medical advice and it's a good idea besides for women in their age group.

Mail late again

Human frailty is something we must all tolerate, but at the same time, when the weakness becomes a habit, it is often time to seek a remedy. Case in point, the daily mail delivery between Belleville and circuit which includes Stirling and numerous other municipalities.

Since the change in drivers, sometime with the past year, there has been an increasing frequency in the number of times the mail here has not been sorted at the accustomed hour. There have been a few admissions that the truck was late, due to mechanical problems, but on others, the tardiness of the operator in arriving at work in Belleville has been the cause. One would suspect this is probably the reason most times when there is no ready explanation offered.

As Stirling only receives mail once a day, that is useful to the business community in particular, it seems appropriate to expect that delivery to be relatively constant, unless weather is a factor. If people call at the post office on their way to work, it means a second trip if the mail is not ready. For those who drive, parking is enough of a problem without having to make a second effort, by which time the streets would be even more crowded.

Mail service in all its aspects is excellent in the village. The local staff does everything possible to accommodate within the regulations, which is typical of smaller offices. As far as actual distribution is concerned, it can only be as efficient as the arrival of the material allows.

It's fair time

Many long months of hard work by many people culminates this weekend when the 114th edition of the Stirling Fair is presented at the local grounds west of the village. Under the leadership of Kenneth Mumby, as president and Mrs. John Sheridan, secretary, the Stirling Agricultural Society plans to welcome all with a varied and entertaining program.

Fall fairs of the rural variety, are institutions in the small communities which provide the farming economy of Ontario, and for that matter Canada. Those in larger communities, such as Belleville, are gradually changing their emphasis from strictly farming work to a combination that will attract the city-goer as well.

Fall fairs are the chance for residents to take a day or two to cease their normal work and visit with their neighbors and friends, discuss the topics of the day, and hold friendly competitions in various classes and types of displays which are common to the rural life.

Come one, come all, and see what the fair has to offer.

IN RECYCLING CIRCLES

The Steel Company of Canada is into the pop-rock music business indirectly as a result of its pollution control program.

Stelco's emission controls picked out sulphuric acid, which was difficult to dispose of safely and not profitably saleable.

Researchers, working on the problem, found they could turn it into hydrochloric acid which can be re-used.

And there was a bonus -- the process produced iron oxide which was almost absolutely pure. This is used to provide the soundtrack on recording tape.

I wonder if it's used strictly for acid rock music.

In Boston, an organic chemist came up with a process that uses worms to turn garbage into high-quality compost.

Estimating that a community of 75,000 people would produce 100 tons of garbage a day, he decided that 100 tons of worms could deal with that handily. A high grade soil conditioner.

His scheme involved placing the garbage and the worms in a tube daily.

So far no municipalities have taken him up on the plan. You see, he doesn't say where you get 100 tons of worms in the first place.

And he has no suggestions on how to separate the worms from the finished compost.

I guess you could say there's still a few bugs in it.

The old five-gallon milk pail has to be one of the ultimate re-usable containers. They were put out daily for collection at the farm gate, sterilized and returned.

And they lasted for years. Cans aren't used as much in these days of bulk milk transport. But the interior decorators took to them.

I've seen them in boutiques with painted-on daisies and inflated prices, for sale as conversation pieces.

And one motel I've stayed in used them as bases for most of their dining and drinking tables. It goes with the Canadiana theme.

Choose your own licence numbers!

Gordon Carton, Q.C., Minister of Transportation and Communications, announced this week that it will be possible for Ontario motorists to obtain multi-year passenger car licence plates with the three letters and three numbers of their own choice.

Starting immediately, the Ministry will accept on a first come, first served basis, requests for special number plates for passenger cars and station wagons.

Requests should be mailed as soon as possible to the Special Plate Office, Ministry of Transportation and Communications, MacDonald Block, Queen's Park, Toronto 182.

Motorists may use forms published in newspaper advertising throughout the province this week or send in their request by means of a letter indicating their "own choice" and two alternatives.

The fee for issuing each set of "own choice" plates will be $25 over and above any other fees payable and must accompany any request for the special licence plates. If the number is available a receipt will be returned along with instructions outlining the proper procedures to apply for the 1973 registration.

If the number requested has been previously allocated or is otherwise not available, the fee will be returned.

In making the announcement, Mr. Carton said, "Every effort will be made to fill all requests received for the 'own choice' plates, but there will, of course be certain combinations of letters that will not be made available out of respect for good taste and the letters G, I and Q will not be used."

Certain series will be reserved for Members of the Legislature of Ontario, Members of the House of Commons and Ontario and Federal Government vehicles, doctors and diplomats.

Licence plates for commercial vehicles, buses, motorcycles and snowmobiles will be issued on an annual basis, and quarterly plates will remain available for commercial, bus and farm vehicles.

The multi-year plates are expected to last from three to five years, but registration fees will still be payable on a yearly basis. The annual cost for an 8-cylinder vehicle will be $40; a 6-cylinder $32; and $23 for a 4-cylinder car. Trailer fees will remain at $5 per year.

The new style licence plates are the result of extensive testing and evaluation of various paint and metal combinations. The metal used in the multi-year plates is 25% heavier than previous years and is given a special galvanizing treatment prior to the application of the enamel.

WEEKLY REPORT FROM FOXBORO DISTRICT CO-OP

(BY JACK WOOD)

Weather this year could produce some grain corn storage problems, if the current rains continue into fall harvesting. If you have a grain corn crop this year, and haven't tried Chemstor yet, now is the time you should call your Co-op to get full information.

The traditional method for storing grain corn is cribs, or airtight silos, or farm driers. The idea is to reduce moulds and bacterial growth by drying to 14% moisture, or else reduce oxygen supply to prevent fungus growth.

Chemstor is a chemical preservative that stops respiration in grain and kills the embryo. Without germination, the grain retains its nutrient value. In fact some recent studies indicate that feed efficiency of Chemstor treated corn is up to 10% better than hard, dry corn, when fed to hogs, beef, and dairy calves.

When you compare total annual costs of storing and feeding high moisture corn the Chemstor way, as opposed to the traditional methods, the treated corn is cheapest. Costs included in total annual costs are capital investment, operating and labour costs wastage, field losses, fixed costs, and variations in feeding efficiency.

Loyalist has spacious campus

The spacious campus always inpresses out-of-town students, who revel in its 136 acres of rolling countryside just three miles west of Belleville.

Less than five minutes from any classroom door are cedar groves, grassy banks beside a tiny, winding stream, and plenty of places for fall and spring outdoor lunches and studying.

The cedar bush that covered the site five years ago is gradually being pushed back by lawns and flower beds along Loyalist Wallbridge Road in front of the college. But wilderness areas have been retained for students' enjoyment beyond the new college buildings.

The college's architects have taken advantage of the campus's natural features, preserving stands of cedar around buildings and parking lots.

They positioned the college buildings on a limestone outcropping in a split level arrangement that gives panoramic views of the rolling countryside from all main assembly areas.

A master landscaping plan is now in preparation. Eventually, when the building program is complete, the college buildings to the east and north will stretch the unspoiled natural landscape. The college creek will be dammed to form a man-made lake and playing fields will take over a meadow at the north boundary.

TODAY'S CHILD

BY HELEN ALLEN

THE TORONTO SUN SYNDICATE

Paul must have wondered why he was all dressed up like this to visit a man with a camera. The not quite six-year-old managed his posing very well though he would probably have looked and felt more his small boy self in a T-shirt.

Slim, small-boned, Paul has big blue eyes, dark hair and fair skin plus a few freckles. He is in good health. Background information is limited but his ancestry is thought to be Anglo-Saxon and Irish.

Paul is an insecure little fellow who fears competition. His development is behind the average for his age. He attended kindergarten last year but is not yet ready for Grade one. Depending on what school he is to attend, he will need either to repeat kindergarten or to be in a reading readiness class.

His foster family is active in their church and with them Paul enjoys Sunday School and church services. He likes to sing and carries a tune quite well.

The Children's Aid Society feels it is important to Paul to have a brother several years older who would take an interest in him and whom Paul would want to imitate. It will be best if he can be the youngest in the family, or certainly have no other children closer in age than two years.

A mother and father who can combine firmness with tremendous warmth will find Paul a lovable son. They should be able to provide stimulation without constant pushing. The gains Paul made in the past year suggest he may be able to progress even further in the right environment.

To inquire about adopting Paul, please write to Today's Child, Box 888, Station K, Toronto. For general adoption information, consult your local Children's Aid Society.

Ontario is now putting together the biggest municipal enumeration in its history.

Without you it won't be right.

This is an election year for municipal councils, school boards and other local bodies in most of Ontario. An early step in these elections is the documenting of voters' lists. To assemble voters' lists we need to make an enumeration. This is done by the Province for each municipality.

But our municipal enumeration involves more than just voters' lists. It helps determine the division of education property taxes between the public and separate school systems. It lets the Province more fairly distribute grants to local governments to help reduce municipal tax bills. And it also helps provide us with an accurate population count.

Collecting nearly 8 million names and addresses, as you can imagine, is a big job. The Province is employing 8,000 people to visit every residence in Ontario. When the government representative knocks on your door, the procedure is simple. The enumeration notice is pre-printed by computer with the names of everyone currently on record in your household. If you agree that the information is correct and complete, you simply sign the notice. If there are changes, such as an addition to the family, corrections are made on the spot, verified and signed by you or any other adult in your household. If you are not home the notice is left, together with simple instructions. You mail it, postage free, only if there are changes.

You will be counted sometime between September 5th and 18th.

The Municipal Enumeration: September 5-18.
Without you it won't be right.

Strike statistics

Labour Minister Fern Guindon said recently time lost due to work stoppages in Ontario during the first six months of the year increased over the same period last year although statistics reveal that the number of strikes and employees involved decreased.

Referring to a preliminary report prepared by the Labour Ministry's Research Branch, he noted that there were 109 work stoppages in the province up to the end of June, eight fewer than for the same period last year. The number of employees involved decreased from 55,677 in 1971 to 37,487 this year.

During the first half-year of 1972, the Ministry's Collective Agreement Library recording 1,067 collective agreement settlements affecting 155,777 Ontario workers in industries other than in construction. In addition, the library identified 45 settlements of major agreements in the construction industry involving 17,290 employees and seven settlements involving 390 employees where amendments had been made during the term of an agreement.

The report noted that the Ministry's conciliation officers and mediators played a major role in assisting parties to reach agreements during the six-month period.

Up to the end of June 1,238 collective agreement disputes involving 210,885 employees in all industries were reported. During the period, 914 were disposed of. Conciliation officers were successful in settling 445 disputes and 458 were recommended for "no board." Eleven disputes were withdrawn. There were 324 disputes outstanding at the officer stage on June 30.

In the first six months of the year, the Ministry's mediators provided assistance in 186 disputes involving 46,648 employees. In 124 disputes, the mediators entered negotiations in the face of an impending work stoppage and assisted in reaching agreements in 92 prior to a strike deadline. One dispute was settled by parties following mediation assistance, one proceeded to arbitration and 30 resulted in work stoppages. Twenty of these disputes were settled with the assistance of mediators and ten were settled later by the parties.

The time lost due to strikes and lockouts was 578,585 man-days up to the end of June as compared to 508,200 in the same period of 1971.

Over 47% of the man-days lost was as a result of three work stoppages: DeHavilland Aircraft of Canada Ltd, and United Automobile Workers Local 112 104,764 man - days); Westinghouse Canada Ltd. and United Electrical Workers Local 504 (87,110 man-days); and Metropolitan Toronto and City of Toronto and Canadian Union of Public Employees Local 43 (82,500 man-days).

Manufacturing industries accounted for almost 74% of the total time lost in the first half of 1972. Public administration came second with 14.4% of the man-days lost. Almost all of the time lost in public administration occurred during the second quarter of the year and was mainly attributable to the strike by outside workers of Metropolitan Toronto and the City of Toronto.

WATERFOWL FOOD PLANTS
Arrowhead and water plantain, easily identified, grow in shallow water or mud. Flowers—white, 3 petaled. On the arrowhead they are medium sized, on a single stalk. On the plantain, tiny and on a many branched stalk. Arrowhead tubes, called duck potatoes, are eaten by diving ducks, which root them from soft mud. Plantain is a good food for geese. They eat the fleshy basal portions.

MR. AND MRS. EDWIN T. LEWIS

Lewis - Donohoe

Rev. J.F. McGarvey officiated at the nuptial mass on August 12 at St. James the Minor Church, Stirling, when Catherine Judith Donohoe, daughter of Mr. and Mrs John Robert Donohoe, R.R. 4, Stirling exchanged vows with Constable Edwin Terrance Lewis of Belleville, son of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil K. Lewis, Renfrew, Ont. Mr. James Morrow, R.R. 4, Stirling rendered organ music and accompanied Miss Lana LaChappelle as soloist, who sang The Lord's Prayer, Ave Maria (English version) and On This Day.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, chose a gown of floor length in fashionable princess styling of Paloma silk. The high wedding band neckline and wide bands of full sleeves accented with re-embroidered Belguim lace. Two rows of same lace enhanced the front of her dress, and a detachable chapel train falling softly from the shoulders complimented the ensemble. Her headpiece was a single organza rose with peau-de-sole leaves and seed pearl trim, which held in place a tiered bouffant silk illusion veil. She carried a cascade bouquet of red roses and white carnations.

Miss Jean Donohoe, sister of the bride, as maid of honor wore a gown of light green polyester crepe bodice with an overlay of gold and green chiffon skirt with matching elbow length sleeves and ruffled collar. Her headpiece and shoes were gold and she carried a nosegay of gold and green baby mums.

Bridesmaids Mrs. Michael Doucette of Belleville and Miss Ellen Lewis of Renfrew, sister of the groom, were dressed identically to the maid of honor.

The flower girl, Miss Patricia Horvath of Delora, cousin of the bride, wore a light green polyester crepe gown with gold and green chiffon bows and streamers at the back of her dress. She wore a matching headband and carried a basket of gold and green baby mums.

Constable Michael Doucette of Belleville was best man while Leonard Pelky of Renfrew and Robert Macaulay of Frankford were the ushers.

For the reception held at the Lower Trent Valley Fish and Game Club the bride's mother received the guests wearing a light green, brocade silk dress, matching flowers in her hair, and bone accessories. Her corsage was of yellow mums and carnations.

Also in the receiving line was the bride's grandmother, Mrs. J.L. Donohoe, wearing a dress of white polyester crepe bodice and turquoise skirt accented with white lace stand-up collar, black accessories and a corsage of pink mums.

Fred Donohoe of Belleville, uncle of the bride, was master of ceremonies at the reception while the bride's community, the River Valley Women's Institute, catered to the dinner.

For the wedding trip to points east and U.S.A., the bride donned a street length dress of blue fortrel lace, white collar and cuffs. She wore white accessories and a corsage of pink mums and carnations.

Upon their return they will reside at 130 Sidney St., Belleville, Ont., Apt. 10.

Prior to her marriage the bride was honored at a miscellaneous shower of relatives with 21 present, given by Mrs. V. Macaulay and Mrs. P. Houle of Frankford. Another miscellaneous shower was held with 80 ladies present, by Mrs. Ed Heasman and daughter Maria, with co-hostesses Mrs. Glenn Morrow, Mrs. Harry Morrow and Mrs. Ernest Carr. Also the nurses of 7th level, Belleville General Hospital held a miscellaneous shower at the home of Mrs. John Cresswell, Belleville.

Farmers union seeks crop compensation

Many Ontario farmers who have suffered crop loss because of adverse weather conditions will not survive without direct financial assistance from government. Unusual winter temperatures caused severe damage to or ruined most of the peach crop in Western Ont., and the frost of June 11 caused extensive damage to many crops over a large area of Western Ont.

Now, and probably the most severe, excessive rainfall in Eastern Ont., has ruined grain crops and left most of the hay in the fields. Dairy farmers are particularly hard pressed.

Blake Sanford, Co-ordinator for the Ontario Region of the National Farmers Union said today that following a thorough discussion of the situation at a Regional Meeting last week, letters have been sent to the Hon. Wm. A. Stewart, Minister of Agriculture & Food for Ontario, and the Hon. Bud Olson, Minister of Agriculture in Ottawa, requesting an immediate commitment from governments for financial assistance for farmers who have suffered these disasters to enable them to make management decisions that will allow them to continue farming. Farmers who because of chronic lack of realized income resulting from Provincial and Federal economic policies face bankruptcy.

"If the Quebec Government can ear-mark three million dollars for its farmers hit with crop losses, surely Ontario can, in addition to a like amount from the Federal Government," he said.

Mr. Sanford said that efforts of the governments thus far, for example matching dollar for dollar monies that farmers can raise, will not solve the problem. These farmers have been in financial difficulties for some time and have no money to start the fund rolling.

"Without assistance many of these farmers will fall by the wayside. Their talents and skills will be lost from the farming scene. Can the people of Canada afford to let this happen?"

Mr. Sanford concluded that, "It has long been the policies of governments to give grants to corporations to build new factories and supposedly create jobs, an example being the recent announcement of a grant of $867,000 to Levi Strausse of Canada Ltd., a subsidiary of the U.S. company, to establish a plant in Cornwall."

"Must farmers be looked upon as second-class citizens or can they expect the same treatment as corporations to allow them to continue farming and contribute to our general economy in a meaningful way."
